VOL. XXVII.

That President Cleveland Might Have Spoken Days Ago,

YET REMAINS LOCKED IN PETTO

A New and Startling Question Now Propounded:

WILL HE VOTE FOR HILL AT ALLP

The Campaign in Which Hugh Grant Defeated Friend Scott for the Mayoralty Recalled-Campaign Developments.

New York, October 25,-(Special.)-While city and Washington are saying that in ood time President Cleveland will speak ut in support of Hill in his race for governor, the fact is there is not a democrat this city or state who believes in his heart that the president will say one word either directly or indirectly that will make irst many politicians did believe that the president would speak out, but now that he campaign is half over and he has said othing they have changed their minds.

They keep talking in public about an exnected message from the president and say hat he will register and vote, but no one ally believes anything of the kind. In fact there are men in this city who know the president very well who say in private that he would be glad to see Hill defeated. If he president registers and votes without coming out openly for Hill the suspicion will be very general that he voted for the hird ticket headed by his friend Everett P.

What He Could Have Done No one familiar with the inside of New politics doubts that Cleveland could kept that third ticket out of the field word. He did not speak that word t is now a settled conviction that ler, the third candidate for governor, new just what he was talking about when said yesterday that the president would be silent until the end of the campaign ad do nothing to aid Hill in his fight.

If the president follows that policy it reains to be seen how the country will judge of his action, but there is no question that such action will be accepted here as proof that the president cannot rise above per-sonal prejudice, even to save the democratic But the question of gravest importance in this campaign is how many votes the president can control by his silence. No one doubts that if he keeps silent to the end it doubts that if he keeps silent to the end it will lose Hill some votes, but how many no man can say. The federal office holders in this state are practically all members of the Cleveland wing of the party, but they are not all cuckoos. There are some among them independent enough to think and act for them sive is political without waiting to hear from the administration. These men have already come out openly and boldly for the state ticket. They are the men who have some following and influence, all of which will be for Hill.

But there are many small fry, petty office holders in this city and the four thousand fice holders in this city and the four thou-sand postmasters throughout the state who will wait for the president to speak before they open their mouths in this campaign. If he keeps silent most of these men, it is admitted, will vote against Hill if they vote at all. A few of them will vote for him

Postmaster Dayton, Collector Kilbreth Naval Officer Baldwin, Shipping Commis-sioner Power, Pacific Railroad Commission r E. Ellery Anderson and other Clevelar appointees in this city are out for Hill, but hey spoke out without waiting for the house clock, and they are men who would, under any circumstances, speak and vote according to their own judgment even if it was contrary to the expressed wishes of the president.

Bob Maxwell, the headsman of the pos office department, has been in the state for several days, but he spoke no word for Hill and the state ticket. He spent some time in this city but did not go near the democratic state headquarters. His visit, his action and his silence combined have strengthen-ed the impression that the administration will never speak for Hill and that its in-fluence will be used against him secretly. What Will Be the Effect?

What the result will be in the election is only a matter of conjecture, but the poli-ticians say that the after effect will be apparent to the whole country.

If Hill wins without a word from the administration the Cleveland faction of the party will not be heard of again in this state and the president will be without po-litical influence or following in a state where he has used all the power of his of-

where he has used all the power of his office to build up a personal machine.

If Hill loses by a narrow margin fairminded democrats all over the country will place the blame where it belongs, and the senator will be regarded as more of a hero in politics than ever before.

Such is the inside feeling in political circles here, and it is growing more pronounced every day.

ed every day.

Even those who still pretend to believe that the president will support the state ticket admit that unless he speaks quickly his words will come too late to be of any mactical value in the campaign.

THERE IS NO PEACE.

All Hopes of Harmony Between the Democrats of New York. New York, October 25.—One obstacle in the way of harmony in the matter of demcratic candidates in the city congressional districts disappeared today when E. J. Dunphy formally notified the board of police ommissioners to remove his name from state democratic ticket as nominee for congressman from the eighth district. This practically narws the contest in that district down to t and prohibition parties ich have candidates in nomination. Tim Campbell's motion before Judge Bar rett, in the supreme court, for an order to compel the police commissioners to place his name upon the official ballot as the republican candidate for congress from the ninth district was dismissed today.

Senator Faulkner, of West Virginia campaign committee, returned to Washington today. He admitted, prior to his departure, that his mission hither had been a failure so far as the democratic congres-sional situation in the city districts is concerned. He has been unable to bring the factions to an agreement. Congressman

Dunphy's retirement in the eighth was his own act, and will have no bearing upon the situation in the other districts.

In Brooklyn, Senator Faulkner says the outlook is better. The independent demo-cratic candidate in the fifth district accepted the decision of the reform executive com-mittee and has filed notice of his withdrawal. John L. Nostrand will probably with-draw also. In the other two Breeklyn districts, there will be no concessions on either side, according to the present under-

"No Truth in the Statement."

"No Truth in the Statement,"

While awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Cleveland, at the pier, the president received the following note from a reporter:

"It has been stated that you have written a letter endorsing Senator Hill, which letter will be read at Cooper Union tonight. Is there any truth in it?"

The president replied: "There is absolutely no truth in the statement. I thank you all for your courtesy."

Statement of the State Democracy. Statement of the State Democracy. The state democracy tonight gave out a statement in regard to the congressional situation in this city and the recent unsuccessful attempt to harmoniously settle the disputes with Tammany hall. The statement calls attention to the fact that when Tammany hall's list of congressional nominations appeared it was found that every congressman who voted for the Wilson bill had been refused renomination, while every one who had opposed the bill, save one, had been renominated.

The state democracy had no alternative

The state democracy had no alternative except to make nominations in each district, and this was accordingly done. Finally, Senator Faulkner, chairman of the congressional campaign committee, appealed to all elements of the democratic party to units when constructions. pealed to all elements of the democratic party to unite upon congressional tickets.

A conference with the leading men of both parties was accordingly held. Everything pointed to the success of the movement until it transpired that Congressman Dunphy and Bourke Cockran, who falled of renomination by Tammany hall, could not, under any circumstances, be renominated.

Finally a proposition was made involving the withdrawal of two Tammany hall candidates. It was understood that one candidate was willing to step aside in the general interest, but the capression of this willingness was obtained by Senator Hill on grounds of personal friendship, and not by any leader of Tammany hall. This lent to Tammany hall leaders the table of obtaining the single withdrawas to secure absolute harmony, but they were unable to solute harmony, but they were unable to perform it, and as a result the negotiations for harmony failed.

The statement concludes as follows:
"It is due to Senator Faulkner, Senator
Hill and Chairman Hinckley to say that they were constant and insistent in their efforts to effect a different result, and it is believed that they were supported by some of the leaders of Tammany hall, but powerful but undisclosed influence seems to have always stood in the way of an agreement."

CRISP IN TENNESSEE.

The Speaker Received with Distinguished Honors in Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., October 25.—(Special.)—There was a great outpouring of the democracy today and tonight in honor of Speaker Charles F. Crisp. On his way to Nashville, Mr. Crisp was met at Fosterville by a committee of prominent citizens, including Mayor Guilde, Chancellor Kirkland, of Vanderbilt university, and others. The train was held difteen minutes. train was held fifteen minutes at Mur. freesboro, where Mr. Crisp was introduced by Congressman James D. Richardson and made a brief speech. Coming on to Nash-ville he was provided with quarters at the Nicholson house, where, during the greater part of the day, he was compelled to re-ceive the thousands of democrate and. ceive the thousands of democrats and a few leading republicans, who called to pay

Tonight was witnessed the most brilliant political demonstration seen in years pre vious to an election. A procession formed on the public square and marched through the streets to the Vendome theater. Th procession was headed by a detail of po-lice and included the Davidson County Democratic Club, the Jackson Democratic Club, the Jefferson Democratic Club, and the Young Men's Democratic Club, three local bands and Warren's band of Evansville. The clubs were provided with uni-forms, torches and flambeaux, and their passage through the streets was witnessed

Arrived at the Vendome theater all were unable to gain admission, but fully 2,800 crowded into the building. Seated on the stage were: Congressmen Washington stage were: Congressmen Washington, Richardson, McMillin and Cox, of Tennessee; W. J. Stone, of Kentucky, and over 100 prominent citizens of Davidson county. Mr. Crisp was introduced by Colonel Duncan B. Cooper, of Nashville, and spoke at length on national issues. He was given close attention by the large audience, and when he closed was presented with flowers.

The Line of the Speech. Speaker Crisp commenced his address by eulogizing the United States government claiming that it was the best the world nad ever seen, and adding that it was of paramount importance the people should study and understand the economic ques-tions of the day. He said the democratic party had no apology to make to the people since securing control of the govern ment. When they came into power the conditions which confronted them were most foreboding, business was at a standstill, manufactures were idle and laboring men were tramping over the country by the thousands. The democratic party had sought to ascertain the cause for this state of affairs and apply the remedy. Long before the panic reached this country it began to manifest itself in foreign countries, and he denied that a change in the administration was responsible for the depression. He declared that 't was his belief that a majority of the people always have, and do now, want the free coinage of both silver and gold, but it required time to crystallize public opinion. The party had always satisfactorilly settled questions of interest to the people,' and it will settle the silver question. nent. When they came into power the con

RETURNED TO WASHINGTON. President Cleveland and Family

Leave New York. Jersey City, October 25.—President Cleveland and his family left the Pennsylvania railroad depot for Washington at 4:34 o'clock this afternoon. They traveled in Vice President Thomson's special car. The president arrived by the Desbrosses street ferry at 3:50 o'clock p. m. He was accompanied by Dr. Bryant and Miss Byrant. The carriage was guarded by three detectives and was driven to the Adams Express Company's pier, where the party awaited the arrival of the steamer Maryland, on which was Mrs. Cleveland and her children. The Maryland arrived at 4:20 o'clock. Mrs. Cleveland and her children were in Mr. Thomson's car, which was attached to the Colonial express. In a few minutes the train was drawn from the steamer and the Cleveland car was brought to a standstill at the crossing.

Washington, October 25.—The president and Mrs. Cleveland, the two little Clevelands and their nurses, arrived here at 10:10 o'clock tonight over the Pennsylvania rall-road, the train being twenty minutes late. Private Secretary Thurber had two carriages in waiting for the party and they were driven to the executive mansion, which has been thoroughly renovated during their absence.

Two private detectives walked, one on each side of the president, guarding him closely, to prevent any such advance as that made by the crank at Df. Bryant's house in New York.

AMUSES THE JAPS.

Chinese Prisoners of War Make a Very Modest Request.

THEY WANT JAPAN TO SEE TO IT

That China Promptly Sends on Their Salaries as Soldiers.

> JAPAN'S RICE CROP IS VERY FINE And This Will Add Much Money to the Treesury to Carry on the War-The Guns Captured at Ping-Yang.

Vancouver, B .C., October 25.-The following additional Japanese advices were brought here by the steamer, Empress of Japan today. Since the Japanese navy has taken possession of the west coast of Corea, between Ninsen and the Tadtong river, the difficulty hitherto experienced by the commissariat in supplying provisions and ammunition to the Japanese in the interior portion of Corea has been removed and freight is now being conveyed by sea instead of land. Japanese transports are running between Ninsen and the Tadtong

Hitherto neither newspaper reporters nor the general public have been allowed by the naval authorities to accompany the fleet, but special arrangements were lately made by which reporters are permitted to embark on board war vessels. The privilege is confined to a small number, only one reporter being allowed per ship.

They Want Their Pay. Much amusement is being caused by the naive replies and outspoken demeanor of the Chinese prisoners of war now in Ehime perfecture (Matsuyama). They express themselves as more than delighted with the manner of their entertainment and the quality of rations served them. They are not, they declare, regular soldiers, but mere mercenaries, having entered the Chinese army for the pay promised them and which, according to their contract, still runs on even when they are in captivity. This point they have frequently emphasized and constantly beg their guards to request the Japanese government to see that China pays them regularly. They want all their back pay. Their salaries, they allege, are considerably in arrears.

The Japanese soldiers guarding them are said to be astonished at the spirit shown by these men. They have not the faintest conception of patriotism, their whole soul being wrapped up in planning for a payment of what rightly or wrongly they claim as their dues. None of them express any particular desire to hurry back China and they seem to have got all the fighting they want. The men are in good health and spirits, excepting the mental worry attendant upon that question of back Guns Captured at Ping-Yang.

Thirty-eight guns were captured at Ping-Yang. They consisted of Krupp field and mountain pieces, Gatlings and Nordenfeldts. The two Japanese now in the hands of the Chinese authorities at Shanghai, are reported to be in good health. The consu general is sparing no pains to secure good treatment for them. Enthusiasm in contriinues unabated and the Red Cross Society receives many contributions of 10 cents a month during the continuation of the war from private purses. An eye witness at the battle of Yalu says in the columns of The Japanese Mail, that there seems to be little doubt that the Japanese can now walk over the course and get where they want, whether it be Peking Moukden, or both. All they will have to provide for is the getting back again, for unless they do so this year either place may be their Moscow next year.

A very fortunate incident is the favorable state of the rice crop this year in Japan. Until all the critical days of the growth of he rice plant had passed the utmost appre nension was felt throughout the country for the misery of famine, added to that of a foreign war, would reduce the country to great straits, but it is now estimated that the yield must be above the average by 16 per cent. A surplus of 10 per cent over the average yield means an increase of three and one-half millions koku valued at 28,000. 000 yen. This will go far to relieve the stri gency in the money market. There are in the vaults of the banks some 78,000,000 yen of specie in reserve, out of which a sum re-quired to support the army for several months may be disbursed without any particular inconvenience.

The leaders of the Kashin-To, a powerfu political party in Japan, formulated the following resolutions, which will be submitted at a convention to be held soon, and which without doubt will be unanimously adopted: "L Our party will vote for whatever appro priation of money may be necessary to car ry the present war to such a termination a shall serve to chastise China and to secure permanent peace for the orient.

"2. Since it would only invite future calam itles to patch up a temporary peace, our par ty will resolutely resist the acceptance of any proposal of peace made before the vital objects of the war have been attained. "3. Since it is of essential importance tha the whole nation should be united in orde to achieve the vital objects of the war or party will, for the moment, desist from any criticism of the cabinet errors and will apply our whole strength in the field of for

In addition to the above resolutions the meeting will be asked to pass an address of congratulation to the sovereign and a vote of thanks to the army and navy for the victories hitherto achieved.

A FOOL AND HIS MONEY. It Did Not Take Him Long to Lose

Florence, Ala., October 25.—(Special.)—Yesterday Julius Herman Wanenwetsch arrived in Florence with $250. Last night he terday Julius Herman Wanenwetsch arrived in Florence with $250. Last night he cultivated a jag, and while helplessly drunk he was relieved of $240 by unknown parties. The robbery occurred at 12 o'clock on Court street in the very heart of the city. Wanenwetsch had been drinking all the afternoon and had displayed his money to several parties. Shortly before 12 o'clock Officer Hill received a message that the man had money and was likely to be robbed.
Hill was about a block away when he received the message. He started at once for the place, but the man had already been robbed before he reached him. The officers heard him cry out for help. Wenenwetsch was too drunk to give any particulars. His pants had been torn almost from him by the robbers in their efforts to get his purse from his pocket. All efforts to find out who the victim of the midnight robbery was proved futile until this afternoon. He would not even tell his name (last night and this morning was too drunk to talk at all. This afternoon his valise arrived from St. Florian, and from letters and papers in it it was learned that he had recently come from California. Letters were found bearing Austrian stamps addressed to him at Baltimore, Asheville, Sacramento and half a dozen other places. He has been too drunk all day to give any information concerning himself and is now locked up to get sober. No arrests have been made yet.

Where Confederates Fought on the Field of Gettysburg. New York, October 25.—At its late session the legislature of Louisiana made an appropriation for the purpose of making the positions held by the troops from that state during the terrible three days battle at Gettysburg. Five veteran confederate soldiers have been selected from the Army of Northern Virginia and commanded by Governor Foster, of Louislana, to visit the battlefield and co-operate with the official federal Gettysburg field command in its purpose of making history. A cordial invitation has been extended by Colonel John B. Bachelder, of the war department, for the Louisiana committee to meet him at Gettysburg early in November for consul-tation and the location of positions of the confederate troops in the course of his-

There was an exciting occurrence at the balloon ascension. A man and a dog went up, each attached to a parachute. The strings holding the dog broke, he fell from a great height and was dashed to pieces. The man was so unnerved that he pieces. Mr. Wilson, on appearing, was cheered as the "next president of the United States." He talked for five minutes on the tariff to one hundred people.

Senator Camden made his first public appearance on the trip at New Martinsville, introducing Mr. Wilson as "the statesman of whom all West Virginia should be proud."

Mr. Wilson addressed an enthusiastic crowd of three hundred people, confining himself to the tariff. He spoke especially of cheaper woolen goods and said that heresist upon the boys wearing wooled clothes as they were now under new tariff, as cheap as shoddy goods under McKinleyism. At Sisterville, W. Va., the heart of th coal region, an enthusiastic crowd of on thousand people was addressed by Senator Camden and Mr. Wilson in ten-minute

Gray, one of the employes of the Mathews cotton mills of this city, received a letter from the McGinnis cotton mills, of New Orleans, asking if any hands wanted to go to New Orleans, and if so would send them transportation at her request. Joseph Mathews went around with her among the hands and quite a number signified that they would go. He was ar rested on a warrant sworn out by one of the cotton mill officers for interfering with their labor. The case was tried before Judge Lawson and Mathews was bound over to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $200. He gave bond. London, October 25 .- The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Central News Com-pany says: "Several persons have been arrested here for discussing in public places a theory that the czar's malady is due to poison. A private meeting of students was surprised by the police today while disussing the situation, and all present were arrested. An immense quantity of mourn ing draperies has been taken to the cathe ar preparations are being made in all the hurches in the capital. Special reporters at Yalta telegraph that they have received permission to visit Livadia. Father Ivan remains at Livadia. He officiates at the daily religious services at Yalta. The church is always thronged and remarkable fervor s displayed by the congregation.

"A dispatch received this evening says that the czar passed a painless day, though his weakness is increasing. The king of Greece, who is in Corfu, has ordered that the arrangements for the czar's reception there be hastened, as he has received more favorable news from Livadia.

What the Czar Says. Berlin, October 25.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Cologne Gazette telegraphs today that the czar received with great courage the intimation of his phy-sicians that there was no hope of saving sicians that there was no hope of saving his life. The same correspondent adds that a few days later when he was feeling some what better, his majesty remarked:
"It is sad that a man of my years should have to die; though, personally, I do not cling overmuch to life. If God still deems my life of use to my country he will make me well."

This last statement was one which was attributed to the czar after the railroad accident at Borki.

The czar, still according to The Cologne

LANDAUER'S LOGIC. A Large Cotton Exporter's Views

the Present Crop. New Orleans, La., October 25.—In reference to the circular letter of Hon. Hector T. Lane, commissioner of agriculture for the state of Alabama, in relation to the causes of depression of cotton, the representative of the Southern Associated Press interviewed President Labouisse and Sec-retary Hester, of the New Orleans cotton change. President Labouisse said: "That in so far as the New Orleans cotton exchange was concerned, Commissioner Lane is certainly in error; that the New Orleans cotton exchange had never, at this season, or in any past season, put forth an estimate of any kind relating to the cotton crop; that the business of the exchange obtain information of facts after they had occurred, and not to make forecasts or estimates of any kind: that the New Orleans cotton exchange has nothing to do with, nor does it in any manner aid or countenance the making of either pri vate or official estimates on the probable production of cotton; therefore the state ment that the principal fight in the conven tion called by Mr. Lane would be on the false estimates sent out by the cotton exchange and cities could not, in any way, refer to the cotton exchange of New Or

Mr. Landauer's Circular.

The local press will publish tomorrow a circular of Mr. A. J. R. Landauer, one of the largest exporters from the south of American cotton, estimating the commer-cial crop of the current season at 8,885,000 bales. Mr. Landauer estimates for Texas 2,-700,000 bales, or an increase of 641,000 over last year; for the group of other gulf states, embracing Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee, 2,700,000 bales, an in-crease of 484,000; and for the Atlantic states, embracing North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, 3,485,000, an in-rease of 210,000.

Calculated by percentages, he maker Texas gain 31 per cent, other-sulf states 22 per cent and the Atlantic states 6½ percent. His views are predicated on personal observations made while traveling through sections of North and South Carolina and Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas and in addition to the reports of a large number of experier correpondents throughout the south. Referring to reports promulgated relative

"From my own personal observation and from what I learn from reports received I feel satisfied that the yield of the present rop is exaggerated."

He says the fact that 5,600,000 bales were marketed from states other than Texas last year, notwithstanding the very poor yield of the Mississippi valley bottoms, in-dicates that some very fine crops must dicates that some very fine crops must have been raised in many sections of those states, leading to the inference that while good results may be obtained this season, they must be considered in many case in comparison with like conditions last season. He finds Texas, Louisiant, and North Carolina ahead of all other states, while the hill lands of Arkansas promise indifferent and, in many cases, poor, crops than last year. Georgia and South Carolina crops are very much spetted—some good, others not better than last year—while the gain in Mississippi is principally in bottom lands which promise better than for years, while the uplands will give an increase.

dian crops will equal last season, while the Asiatic crop promises to prove disappointing. He claims that the spinning trade in England and Germany is improving; France reports good trade with prospects of milis continuing to work full time and that in Russia many of the most prominent spinners and manufacturers have contracted ahead for their entire output for 1895, some having contracts up to March, 1894. In America he looks for a considerable, improvement over last season; he estimates the takings for the year by foreign and domestic spinners at $600,000 bales of American cotton, and calculates on this basis that should the current crop reach $500,000, the visible supply, October 1, 1896, will not have increased more than $40,000 bales over that of October 1, 1894.

He claims that with continued low prices that of October 1, 1895.

He claims that with continued low prices India will not ship anything like the quantity she has shipped the last two years, and that with a reduction of the Asiatic crop the demand for cofton from other centers will naturally increase, added to which he points to the probability of planters holding back a great deal of this year's product on account of low prices and that. product on account of low prices, and that, as cotton cannot be raised at present val-ues, unless there is an improvement, next season must witness a considerably reduc-

He claims that the present heavy movement to market is not an indication of the crop, as it might be even greater with an eight-million crop, and expresses the opinion that it is suicidal to sell an article which has gone far below the price of production, concluding as follows:

"American cotton has no competition and hence America is in a far better position to dictate the price of this article than any other she exports. As a matter of course.

other she exports. As a matter of course, if planters continue to rush their entire product to market at once, if they are so frightened by current prices as to demoralize others, then it is possible we may witness even lower prices yet. On the other hand, if they market gradually and hold a portion, their risk is certainly only nominal, if any, and if no great advance be established we might, for a time at least, experience steady markets, followed by a healthy advance."

ing Company.

Guests Taken Out Through the Windows-Some Narrow Escapes. Montreal, October 25.-The Hotel Normandie, at 64 St. Gabriei street, was gutted by fire early this morning. The fire, which started in the kitchen, spread with great rapidity and soon had all the ordinary avenues of escape cut off. There were a large number of guests in the hotel and nearly all had to be taken out through the windows by firemen on the ladders. The smoke was so dense that many were overcome by it and at least a dition. August Peace, the second cook, who slept in a room without windows, died on the way to the hospital. A drug clerk named Rouen was very se-riously injured and will probably die.

G. B. Nantelt, another boarder, is missing and is supposed to have perished in the burned. There were numerous hair-breadth escapes and only the heroic efforts of the firemen prevented the loss of many lives. The loss by the fire is not yet estimated.

WANTED THE PRESIDENT. A Crank Calls at the House Where Mr. Cleveland Is Stopping. New York, October 25 .- A crank, and one ant, at 54 West Thirty-sixth street, where President Cleveland is stopping, and de-manded to see the president. The man's name is Richard Geordeler, of 414 West Fifty-seventh street.

Geordeler is the same crank, who, some years ago, wrote to Emperor William of Germany calling him to a duel.

Geordeler went up to Dr. Bryant's house about 9 o'clock. He rang the door bell violently, and when the butler responded, de-manded to see the president. The butler told him quietly but firmly that the president could not be seen.

"But it is business of extreme national importance," exclaimed the crank. This brought Dr. Bryant to the door. The doctor has a smooth and determined way that this morning stood him in good stead. He reasoned with Crank Geordeler and told him that it was impossible to see the pres-ident at that hour. Geordeler was finally

CAME FROM AUGUSTA

A Large Delegation from the Blectric City Comes Up to Yell for Walsh.

ARE BADGED AND HAPPY ALL THE WAY

A Royal Welcome Is Given Them at the Union Depot and All Along the Line. They Go to the Statehouse in a Body.

That genial, happy, pleasant face of Benator Waish, having a delicate tint of the richest blue ribbon for a background, was seen swinging , acefully from the lap-el of nearly 500 coats last night.

And everywhere the portrait-a mighty good portrait it was, too—was seen there was found an enthusiastic supporter of the statesman and journalist for a seat in United States senate. Not alone the likenesses of the pleasant face seen pinned to men, but in the arcades of the Kimball were many ladies, ladies promi-nent in the state's society, who pointed proudly to the silk reproduction of the gentleman who is now serving out the un-expired term of the late Senator Colquitt, and who is asking at the hands of the state legislature a return to the national Pronouncedly it was a Walsh day about the Kimball, on the streets, at the union depot, the hotels and the statehouse after in the evening.

As the Georgia train rolled into the union depot on schedule time yesterday afternoon four extra coaches were aftached and each of the coaches was loaded to its capacity. In them were the leading men of the Electric City, men prominent in all walks of life in the home of the senator; ladies who knew and admired the gentleman known all over the state, and children, who were proud of the fact that they are sons of warm supporters of Sena-tor Walsh. In Augusta it was known that Senator Walsh was to address the people of the state at the statehouse last that usual loyal style of devotion to their leader the people of that city de-cided to make the evening one full of marks of friendship, devotion and support, So it was that when the Georgia road senger train left Augusta yesterday aftermoon at 12:20 o'clock four extra coache swung on behind with every seat taken and in some with standing room at a premium. It was a jolly crowd, a crowd full of life, full of admiration for the senator and full of determination to do all

The coming of the Walsh army was heralded along the line of the Georgia road before it and at every station there was a holiday attire, the great crowds whooping for the senator and responding to the refrain sent out by the Augustans There was no lack for lungs in the party and the woods were made to echo with the cheers for the Augusta senator as the train rolled along. In Atlanta it became known that four coaches of Georgians were coming in the interest of the senator and the union depot was not deserted when the train came to a halt. On the other hand there was a great crowd out and the Augustans were given a royal and en-thusiastic reception by Atlantians. 'Midst the yelling of the Augustans mingled with that of the Atlantians the visitors left the cars and prepared for a march, a march so precise and perfect that the body might been taken for a military company to the Kimball, where the senator is stopping and was awaiting the arrival of his towns, men. Falling in by twos the supporters of the senator left the union depot almost before the Georgia train was unloaded and in less than ten minutes the Walsh badge was seen flying through the Kimball and the face of the senator was encountered at every turn.

The delegation was headed by the committee in charge of Z. W. Carwile, ex-president of the Augusta exchange; Re-corder W. H. Barrett, Jr., and Colonel D. B. Dyer, president of the Augusta Street Railway Company. It was a very distin-guished as well as a very large party. Four extra coaches were filled to their capacity, Among the more prominent gentlem Mayor J. H. Alexander, Councilme Mulherin, Harris D'Antignac, Wash Adams and George A. Barnes, ex-Congressman George T. Barnes, M. P. Carroll, Eugene Verdery, John J. Cohen, E. B. Hook, M. Walsh, J. J. Walsh, Dan Kerr, ex-Pres. ident James Tobin, of the Augusta ex-change; Captain W. B. Young, in all probability the next mayor of Augusta: President Patrick Armstrong, of the Irish-Amer-ican Dime Savings' bank; J. T. Bothwell, ex-president of the Young Men's Christian Association: Fire Chief Frank Roulett and many other citizens of prominence in all professions, trades and callings, the laboring element being very strongly represented. There were a number of ladies in the pary prominent among whom were Mrs. Patrick Walsh, wife of the senator, her sisters, Miss Georgia McDonnald, and Mrs. K. C. Smith, Miss Belle Walsh, the senator's niece, Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. Otto Fischer, Mrs. Miller, Miss Amne Stovall, mas, Miss Weisiger and Mrs. Clai-

United States Senator Augusta Delegation,

There was no mistaking the intent and purpose of the delegation. They came to cheer Senator Walsh in his fight for reinto good form. A lung committee was organized and a battle cry improvised. The train had not left the confines of the historic tenth district before the yell was heard, and it was given with a heartiness that was characteristic of Augustans. It was heard at every station and will long be remembered.

When the train arrived in Atlanta the delegates formed in line, two abreast, three hundred strong, and marched up Wall street to the Kimball, giving the battle cry at short intervals. Into the Kimball lobby they marched and their entrance for a time distracted attention from everything else and centered the eyes of all upon the long line as it proceeded upstairs, shouting all a number of his friends who have been here with him all the week, and it was a regular family greeting as it were.

It was Richmond's day and Augusta captured Atlanta for one evening at least.

As the procession moved past the senator it dispersed and soon Walsh badges were seen everywhere. The party brought a good supply of hadges along, and it was not long before scores of admirers and supporters of the senator.

Walsh, It was a great hit and a memorable event. Look where you would there was a blue badge and "Honest Pat Walsh's" picture was on the lapel of hundreds of coats and adorned the dresses of many ladies.

F. G. Byrd, the well-known bicyclist, straddled his wheel yesterday morning to attempt to establish a record for twelve nours on the machine unpaced. The wind went too high, however, before half the time was marked by the watches and the cyclist leaped from his saddle and announced that he would await the coming of a day without wind and try again.

A twelve-hour record unpaced has never been made among wheelmen, and had Mr. Byrd completed the seven hundred and twenty minutes in the saddle, his work, whatever the result might have been, would have gone on record as a chapter in cycling history. Just why none of the cyclists of the country have yet tried to do .twelve hours without a pacer is not known, and Mr. Byrd attempted the feat for the purpose of showing that it could be done and securing an entry in the record books as the first unpaced twelve hour rider. Twelve hours have been ridden and many are the speeds which have been fowered since the first wheel turned the last minute, but in each instant the rider had a pacer to direct his speed and his work. This Mr. Byrd did not want and when he went on the track yesterday morning astride wheel quite a large throng was out to see the work.

Five o'clock was chalked up as the for the start to be made, but it was just fifteen minutes later when Herbert Post and Percy Pittman, the timekeepers, saw the rheel make its first revolution under the wire. A shout went up from the crowd and Mr. Byrd bent to his work and turned the wheel around the first lap in good shape and mighty good time. In the first hour he turned off eighteen and one-half miles and did it with remarkable ease, improving in his speed and mastery of the wheel at every lap's end. Three hours after he started he had turned in fifty miles and that today becomes the record for unpaced three hours the world over, while eighteen and one-half miles covered in the first hour becomes the record for that time. Seventeen and one-half miles was the average per hour for the first three hours. Before the first two hours had passed a stiff breeze came up and it was stiff enough to retard the progress of the wheel and the power which was moving it. There was a large crowd out and to those conversant with wheeling it was apparent that Mr. Byrd was being sadly handicapped by the wind. Every one knew that he could not do the same work while fighting the wind as he would be able to accomplish during a dead calm. Some advised him to quit, while others were hopeful that a lull would come and that the work could be done in fine shape. Mr. Byrd was inclined to concur with the latter and, leaning further forward, pushed his wheel for all there was in

But as the wheel rolled and the hands of the watch moved the wind increased. It was a stiff, ugly breeze and came across the track where it could do the most hindrance to the rider. He reversed his course and tried to get on the leeward side of the breeze, but he could not and at 10:55 o'clock left the track thoroughly satisfied that nothing good could be accomplished.

Mr. Byrd did not leave the track of his own will and accord. He was more anx-lous to complete the run when he quit than when he started, but came off because his friends knew that he could do nothing in the way of making a high record and ruled him. There was a large crowd out when the stop was made and Mr. Byrd was given an ovation by them as he left the track.

During the five hours and forty minutes

Mr. Byrd was moving he covered a little over seventy-five miles. The track was a half-mile track and around it he went 150 times and started again when he was pulled off. His work for twenty-five miles becomes the world's record for that distance inpaced, while that of fifty miles and that of seventy-five miles take a place along

Up to the time of his death he was the senior member of the firm of Matthewson & Co., commission merchants, and was the largest stockholder in the Planters' Hotel Company. By his industry and business ability he accumulated quite a large fortune. He also owned a large amount of real estate in Augusta. He was president of the Augusta Land Company and a director of the King mill and of the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta ralkroad. Mr. Matthewson was fiftyeight years of age, and came to Augusta from New York city in 1856. Two years after he came to this city he married Miss Susie Boutett, who died about fourteen years ago. Their union was blessed with nine children. Only four of them are now living—Mr. Marion B, Matthewson, Mr. Joseph O. Matthewson, Jr., Mr. Tracy Matthewson and Miss Susie Matthewson and few years ago Mr. Matthewson married his present wife, who was Miss Anna Horton. The children of this union are Masters Stanley and Horton Matthewson. He was estimated to be worth $200,000.

YESTERDAY'S RACING.

A Disagreeable Day at Washington Good Sport at Nashville.

Washington, October 25 .- Notwithstandthe disagreeably raw and weather there was an attendance of 1,500 at today's races of the Virginia Jockey Club, at St. Asaph, today. The track was somewhat heavy. The speculators quitted the day somewhat ahead, after playing three favorites and two well backed secthree favorites and two well backed second choice winners. The longest shot was 10 to 1 on Curious in the last. Jack o' Spades, the 1 to 6 and 'out' favorite, in the first, beat Wernberg handily by a length, and fully justified the odds. There was not a little plunging in the second on Prince George at even money, with Song and Dance as a good thing at 3 to 1. Pochino set the pace, followed by Blizarre, the others well bunched. On the back stretch Song and Dance came up, and at the chute was joined by Prince George, Bizarre dropping back. Then ensued the prettiest finish of the day between the three leaders, it being nip and tuck up to the wire. Song and Dance got the verdict by half a length, with the same distance between Prince George and Pochino. The large field of three-year-olds in the third, a five-furlong dash, entailed a delay of nearly half an hour at the post. A fair start was finally secured and Longbrook, the 5 to 2 favorite, won by half a length, in a rattling finish. The fourth was notable for the high odds laid against the second and third horses-100 and 1 each straight. In the sixth Curious, a 10 to 1 shot, surprised the talent by beating Amsterdam, 9 to 5. Tuscan, 11 to 5. Forager, 3 to 1, and Nineveh, 7 to 1, all of which were well backed.

STILL LOOKING FOR NEW EXHIBITS

The Awarding of Premiums to Begin Next Week—A Look Through the County
Exhibite—News of the Day.

Macon, Ga., October 25.—(Special.)—This is Drummers' Day at the Dixie Interstate fair, but the knights of the grip throughout the state have not turned out as had been expected and no formalities distinguish it from the two preceding days. Any improvement in the crowd is hardly noticeable yet, and the day down at the grounds is passing off as usual. There is no question, however, but that Macon is to have the biggest fair she has ever had and the exhibition halls and stock yards are being swelled by new exhibits that are coming in on every train. The stock exhibit is particularly fine, though the stalls are not as well filled now as they will be by next week.

Looking for New Exhibits. Secretary Knapp is busy looking after the new exhibits that came in all day long, and placing them in order. Apropos the stock exhibit the people of the St. Stanislaus college stock farm probably have the best. They are not put in for premiums, but simply for exhibition. This end of the stock department is in charge of the college stewards. The grain exhibit is one that deserves especial mention. The counties are vieing with each other in this display and it has been made one of the most interesting on the grounds. The Barnesville Buggy Company has a most creditable display in Company has a most creditable display in a large building off to the right of the main building. Assistant Secretary R. W. Jemison said today that the award of premiums would not begin before the latter part of next week. Great interest centers on this and the racing, which will commence Monday. The programme for today is:

as bad as might be expected by those who saw it at the world's fair.

It is not the plaisance that objection is raised to, but the tender girls that the German village beer garden employs, or did employ, until the youngest of them were either discharged because they didn't come up to requirements as "entertainers" of all classes of indecent men, or quit of their own volition of sheer shame. I went in there the other day with two other gentlemen and saw three beautiful young girls—sisters, too—waiting on 'the tables and serving beer and lunch. The oldest of them seemed deeply embarrassed when she approached, and when asked why, replied that such work was shameful to her. She said men, in all stages of intoxication, made improper remarks in her presence, and that they had even directed them at her. The following morning—yesterday—we went back and found the three little sisters missing. "Oh, they couldn't stand it," one of the girls said, "and were discharged because they wouldn't talk to the boys."

discharged because they wouldn't talk to the boys."

I afterward understood that they all three quit of their own accord, and this may be true. Now, to make this particular case worse, one of the girls said her father had sent her to work though she didn't want to go. The better class of men who have had this thing called to their attention, are very indignant that ture young girlhood should be sacrificed on such an altar.

The Search Light Again.

The Search Light Again.

The Search Light Again.

I was told last night by unquestionable authority that next Sunday will bring some sensational developments in the police department of the city, and not less among some prominent people here. A number of church people have been quietly at work for some time arming themselves with the law governing gaming, the running of clubrooms and houses of disrepute, and on Sunday, unless something is done to stop proceedings, a number of the leading clubs in Macon will be pulled by the police. The church people have become thoroughly worked up lately over the many glgantic evils that they allege exist in their midst, and are quietly organizing for what promises to be a very sensational fight. The recent sermons by Dr. Monk and their success in gaining the rescinding of the barroom resolution, has inspired their efforts to put down vice and they are now lining up for a work that bids fair to create a sitr. One of the most prominent and wealthlest gentlemen in the city has all the law on vice common to city life at command and it is understood some sensationally got up documents, which will be sprung at the proper time.

Dr. Alonzo Monk preached another very strong sermon at Mulberry Street church tonight. He thanked the council for closing the barrooms after 12 o'clock, but gave notice that on next Sunday he would turn the searchlight on them again, and give an analysis of how their rescinding the barroom act came about.

Admission Fee Reduced.

Admission Fee Reduced. At a meeting of the fair directors yester-day afternoon it was decided to reduce the night entrance fee to 25 cents. This will only hold good until after Saturday night.

The Children's Hollday. The children of the Macon public schools will be turned loose on next Thursday and Friday to visit the fair. The teachers will probably look after their respective classes and make it as enjoyable for the little ones as possible.

The Big Moriginge Filed.

The mortgage of the Southern Railway Company, for $120,000,000, was filed in Bibb superior court. The mortgage was filed by Mr. H. M. Dorsey, of Atlanta, who came down on that particular mission. It has to be filed in every county through which the lines of the Southern run, and has alraedy been recorded in all the countles north of Macon. Newsy Notes.

Newsy Notes.

The police made a big raid on tramps last night and caught twelve Atlanta negroes off the top of the south-bound Southern railway train. They were stealing a ride down to see the Dixle fair. The conductor found the negroes before the train reached kiacon and telegraphed to be met by police officers. The tramps were all stretched out on one coach, and were easily roped in by a detail, composed of Officers Fretwell, Hicks, Wallace and Phillips. This morning Recorder Freeman gave them thirty days on the gang or an optoin of paying $20, in default of which they were sent to the gang. Thirteen other tramps, who have been arrested for varancy, around the fair grounds, were also sent out.

THE HAND OF AN INCENDIARY Caused the Wreeking of a Train or the Macon and Northern.

Athens. Ga., October 25.—(Special.)—The freight train leaving Athens on the Macon and Northern last night at hasf-past 11 o'clock was wrecked near Godfrey this morning at 2 o'clock.

Just as the engine rounded a curve, Engineer Gay saw just ahead a burning trestle. It was too late for him to jump, and his hand went to the lever to reverse his engine. Then came a terrific crash as the iron monster plunged through the burning trestle to the ground below.

Car upon car piled upon the engine, only a few cars and the caboose remaining upon the track.

The conductor at once sought the body of the engineer, the fireman having escape! with slight injuries. The body of Engineer Gay was found after a great deal of work. He had been scalded to death.

To add to the horrors of the affair, the whole debris took fire and one hundred and fifty bales of cotton belonging to R. L. Moss & Co. of this city, were consumed.

Moss & Co., of this city, were consumed. Two cars of miscellaneous merchandise and one car of apples were burned.

The crowning horror of it all is that it was the hand of an incendiary that fired the trestle and sent the brave engineer to his death. The whole section around Godfrey is up in arms, and if the person who did this dastardly work is caught he will pay the penalty of his crime.

KING'S BIG SCHEME

By Which He Was to Bleed an Englishman for $50,000.

Waycross, Ga., October 25.-(Special.)-Seibe King, the Waycross bunco steerer who was tried in Philadelphia on the charge of conspiracy with green goods men, is said to be a notorious land shark, and had he not been arrested, a scheme that he had on foot would probably have brought him a round $50,000 in cash.

He has represented himself to an English capitalist as being a large land owner in this section, and by his shrewdness had induced the Englishman to agree to purchase a certain tract of land in Charlton county, alleged to contain over 100,000 acres of fin a certain tract of land in Charlton county, alleged to contain over 100,000 acres of fine timber and farming land.

King was aided in his scheme by his friend Johnson, who made an imaginary survey of the alleged property, which looked well on paper.

King snowed the map to The Constitution correspondent and remarked that there would be thousands in it for him, if nothing prevented him from giving a satisfactory title to the property.

The map showed the lower part of Georgia and a part of Florida and an imaginary survey of the alleged lands. A description of the land, showing its boundaries in studied detail, was given.

The Englishman, by referring to an ordinary map of Georgia, could have readily recognized the supposed tract of land as being the great Okefinoke swamp.

Kingis idea was to make a successful raid on the green goods men while a title to the land was in preparation.

It was a gigantic scheme, and, had it succeeded, the people of this section would have had to suffer the censure of a duped English capitalist, whose loss would have approximated nearly $50,000.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma-

Aroused, Against the County School Commissioner.

WHOM HE HAD REFUSED TO OBEY

in Which Politics Enter Out of All Proportion to the Subject Concerned.

Sylvania, Ga., October 25 .- (Special.)-A lively and sensational trial took place in Sylvania last Saturday before the county board of education. The case was that of County School Commissioner J. C. Bryan against J. Currie Thompson, teacher, and the charges were neglect of duty, cruelty to pupils and immorality. Politics was interjected into the trial by the defendant and the feeling in the matter on both sides runs high all over the county.

J. Currie Thompson came to Screven several years ago from California and got a position as teacher in the lower part of the county. Since then he has taught several schools in this and neighboring counties, and has also contributed a num-per of well written articles to the papers here. Latterly he has taken an active interest in politics, being a red-hot populist and has written long articles and made speeches in behalf of his party.

The Trouble Begins. A short time ago he began a school at Jackson Academy. He soon became dis-satisfied with the pay he was receiving from the school commissioner and wrote an open letter to the board of education and had it published in The People's Press, the populist paper here, in which he used some very strong language concerning the commissioner. After the article was written, but before it was published, the school commissioner had already preferred the charges above stated against Thompson and he went down to serve the papers on

He found J. Currie Thompson at the academy and told him that he had com to suspend his school until the board could look 'into the charges. Then the way opened. Thompson swore that his school shouldn't be suspended, and after a heated discussion, in which several slang phrase were used and a pistol and rifle played a conspicuous part, though neither of them were fired, the commissioner finally came off with a chart and map that belonged to the county, having summoned Thompson before the board of education, which was to meet here last Saturday.

The Trial Opens. Saturday morning the school commis-sioner's office was crowded with patrons and spectators, and many not being able to get inside, stood on chairs and boxes to be so spicy. Nor were they disappointed Never, perhaps, in any court was a case more hotly conducted, and at any moment It seemed feady to terminate in a personal encounter between the commissioner and the teacher. But for the coolness of the former and the occasional interference of members of the board a collision could not have been avoided.

The trial lasted about two hours, being conducted on one side by the commissioner and on the other by Mr. Thompson himself. The latter asserted foldly and frequently that it was a case of political persecution, Mr. Bryan replying that had it been any other teacher, democrat or populist, he would have pursued the same course.

Charges Answered.

Thompson made many charges against the commissioner, claiming that he had paid teachers who were his relatives more than he had others of the same grade who were not related to him, and that he paid democratic teachers more than he did those of the populist persuasion. The com-missioner explained all the cases cited to the satisfaction of the board, showing that small schools were sometimes paid move in proportion to the number of scholars than larger ones, and also that the merit of the teachers were sometimes taken into consideration.

The air was charged and a continual cross-fire was kept up through the whole trial, which the chairman of the board found it impossible to keep down. After both sides had closed the board decided hat they would let Thompson finish his present public term and then his license would be revoked. He refused to accept this favor at their hands and denoun the decision of the board. He has written a long article for this week's Press in which it is understood he will score all who were connected with his trial and make a direct personal attack on Com-missioner Bryan.

Thompson has a state license and in the outset of the case he insisted that neither the commissioner nor the board had any authority to revoke it or to suspend his school, holding that his license was re-vocable only by the state school commisson's patrons were populists, and these latter are standing by him. They express themselves well satisfied with him as a feacher and are bitter against the commissioner and the board.

Thompson now lives in the Black Creek district, which gave a populist majority in the last election and which is the home of Commissioner Bryan. Several times during the trial he exclaimed: "That Black Creek majority is what did it!" but it seems the board did not agree with him.

The case has been the talk of the county and bids fair to become a famous one in the state.

A SHERIFF ON TRIAL. The Latest Development in the Late Ziegler Tragedy.

Sylvania, Ga., October 25.—(Special.)—The case of the state vs. L. B. Brooker, charged with murder, came up for trial in the justice court here today. It will be remembered that Brooker, who is sheriff of the county, got into a difficulty with the Zeiglers coming out on the Sylvania train about a coming out on the Sylvania train about a month ago, in which he was shot in the head and side, and George M. Zeigler received a wound, from which he died. The shooting was the result of a political discussion between the two, and it created great excitement at the time. Brooker is up, but his wounds have not entirely healed. A few days ago he was arrested by Constable Thomas Bragg, and the case was set for today. A large number of people were present. The prosecution was represented by Judge James K. Hines, of Atlanta, and W. L. Matthews, of Sylvania, Judge H. D. D. Twiggs, of Swainsboro, and Oliver & Overstreet, of Sylvania, represented Brooker. By consent of counsel on both sides the defendant waived committal trial and gave bond in the sum of $2,000 to appear before the grand jury for voluntary manslaughter at the next term of the superior court.

Decisions Rendered Yesterday.

Boykin, Seddon & Co., et al., v. Epstein & Wannbacher et al. Before Judge Falligant. Chatham superior court.

1. The scheme of the code of 1853 (sections 1861, 1855), with reference to transfers and assignments by insolvent debtors; was that in case the debtor parted with title, except as to negotiable papers transferred as collateral security, the effect of the transfer of assignment had to be either the actual extinguishment of a debt or debts in whole or in part, or the creation of a fund for the equal benefit of all his creditors. By the act of February 24, 1886, this scheme was changed so as to allow transfers and assignments of any property whatsoever, including choses in action, for the benefit of a single creditor, or of a number of creditors, to the exclusion of others. Hence, under this act, an insolvent debtor (though he could not have done so under the original code) may assign to a creditor, for that creditor's exclusive benefit, accounts, or choses in action not embraced in the descriptive term "negotiable papers," as collateral security for the debt; and as such assignment creates no trust, there being no person other than the assignee taking any lateral security for the debt; and as such assignment creates no trust, there being no person other than the assignee taking any benefit under it, the assignment acts of 1851 and 1885 do not apply to 't.

(a). The case of Hale-Berry Company v Diamond State Iron Company et al., (decided March 26, 1894.), was correctly decided with reference to the code of 1853, but it is not a correct exposition of the law of the code as modified by the act of 1896, above cited, and is, therefore, overruised in so far as it holds accounts, or books of account, not assignable as collateral security for a debt owing by an insolvent assignor to the assignee without complying with the statutory requirements as to sworn inventory and schedule.

2. Two suits against the same debtor, the tory requirements as to sworn inventory and schedule.

2. Two sults against the same debtor, the first brought by certain preferred creditors and the second by other creditors, having been consolidated for trial, the opening and conclusions, whether treated as matter of right or of discretion, could be awarded by the court to the plaintiffs in the first sult, notwithstanding they were co-defendants with the debtor in the second.

3. Touching other matters complained of ag error, no cause for a new trial appears, the case, according to its substantial merits, having had a right result, both as to the range of questions submitted by the court to the jury for determination, and the findings thereon.

Judgment affirmed.

The Duty of the Legislature.

In the election of a United States sen ator the members of the general assembly have a serious responsibility resting on their shoulders. They have it in their power to promote the strength and unity of the organization by selecting a man who represents the democratic voters of Georgia, their hopes and their purposes. On the other hand, they have it in their power to weaken the party by selecting a man who represents a small and factional minority of the party, whose views on the financial question antagonize every platform utterance and every tradition of the or-

The members of the general assembly, therefore, have this question before them: Shall they weaken the party by disappointing the people, or shall they strengthen it by selecting a man for the senate who represents the desires of the people and the declared purposes of the party?

It is of vital importance to the people of Georgia that their interests in federal legislation should be represented by men who will not be blown about by every wind of doctrine, and who will make no surrender to the selfish greed of the money power. It is of prime importance that the man who is to be elected to serve Georgia, in the senate should be one whose views are thoroughly in accord with the overwhelming majority of the democratic voters of this state on the money question.

The most serious defections that have been made in the democratic party in Georgia are due solely to the charge that the democratic party in congress is responsible for the repudiation of the platform pledge and for the failure to substitute democratic legislation for and other democratic newspapers in the state have shown time and again that this charge was utterly groundless, and they would have been able to prevent defection, but for the fact that, at a critical moment in the campaign, the people of the state were treated to the spectacle of a bushwhacking attack made on the state platform and on the position of the democratic candidate for governor. This gave color to the populist charge that the democratic party in congress is responsible for the repudiation of the financial pledge of the Chicago platform. The efforts of the democratic bushwhackers to popularize the financial doctrines of John Sherman and the republican party in Georgia not only drove many voters out of the party on election day, but had the effect of cooling the ardor of thousands of honest and sincere democrats.

It is incumbent on the legislature, therefore, if the party is to be held together in Georgia; to select as Georgia's representative in the senate of the United tSates a man who is in thorough sympathy with the hopes, desires and purposes of the people, and in thorough accord with the financial policy of the party as set forth in the state platform. That much, at least, the members of the general assembly owe to the people and the party.

Where to Put Your Money.

John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, has his enemies, and they say hard things about him, but not one of them ever intimated that he was deficient in shrewdness and business sagacity.

The example of such a man in these hard times is worth studying. Within a year Mr. Wanamaker has invested over $2,000,000 in Philadelphia real estate. He recognizes the fact that land and town property are down to bedrock, and believing that there must soon be a real estate revival he is putting his money into city dirt.

Wanamaker will make money out of his investment. If is impossible to make a better investment than to buy real estate at present prices. Land is indestructible. It cannot burn up, run away or be stolen. It is bound to rise in a young country like ours where the population doubles every thirty or foryears. The first New York Astor de it a raim never to sell any real estate, butdy grontinue buying more.
His descrit was follow the same policy, but in the main the same business policy which is profitable in our large cities will be found profitable here. No American city ever yet reached a population of 100,000 and then went backward or stood still. Atlanta will be no exception to the rule, and no man who is familiar with its history can doubt that our real estate will in future command prices which will seem phenome nal when compared with the present figures.

You may put it down as a fact that when John Wanamaker is investing millions in city real estate, other men who have only thousands where he has millions will make no mistake if they follow his example.

Another Letter from Dr. Felton.

Dr. Felton returns to the subject of democratic responsibility for the failure o carry out the financial pledge of the Chicago platform, and we print his letter elsewhere. He presents figures showing that a majority of the democrats voted for the unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act, but he omits to mention the fact that a majority of the democrats also voted for substitute leglislation. The defeat of substitute legislation was the repudiation of the platform, and that was brought about by a coalition of eastern democrats and republicans.

Dr. Felton also omits to mention the fact that Judge Maddox was among the men who voted for substitute legislation in every shape in which it was offered. and that he was among the men who voted at the last against unconditional repeal. He did this, too, in spite of the strong pressure brought to bear on him. He was taken to a mountain top, as it were, and shown how he could make himself potent in the matter of appointments; but he resisted the pressure and politely declined to become potent at the expense of his convictions. What more would Dr. Felton have done? What more could be have done? Much that Dr. Felton says about the financial situation is true. The people need a remedy and need it badly. But in what way would he be more influential or more sincere in supporting the only rational remedy than Judge Maddox has been and will be? In fine, we do not see the point that Dr. Felton is trying to make. Bad as the condition of the people is, we fail to see how it would be bettered by repudiating Judge Maddox and putting Dr. Felton in his

Men who have been selected by the people to serve them and who have done their duty earnestly and patriotically. deserve some consideration. Judge Maddox deserves it, and he will receive. it. He will be re-elected not only because he is an honest and a fearless democrat, but because every step that he took and every vote that he cast in congress was in the interests of the Viewing this whole matter solely from the point of view of the people's best interests, we are firmly of the opinion that Dr. Felton, in attempting to divide the people, and in contributing to the lack of harmony that temporary disappointment has precipitated, is doing more to damage the cause of financial reform than he is to forward it. The fact ought to be clear to a man of his experience that no event is better calculated to confirm the grip that the eastern money changers have on the country than division in the south. It ought to be clear to Dr. Felton that a ost sedulous and partly successful at tempt has been made by recent converts to John Sherman's financial doctrines to destroy the harmony of the democratic party. It ought to be as clear to him as it is to us that if this division is promoted still further and made more serious, financial relief will be made impossible for many years to come.

How to Fight Liverpool.

Liverpool is supposed to fix the price of our cotton in our own market, on the theory that she controls the only market for our product.

Now, is there any way to fight Liverpool, and weaken and ultimately destroy the control which she now exercises over our great staple? Mr. N. W. McIvor, our consul general in Japan, has just made an interesting report on the subject of cotton and cotton manufactures in that country, and some of the facts presented by him furnish abundant food for thought The number of cotton spindles now in operation in Japan is between 800,000 and 1,000,000. The manufacture of cotton fabrics is one of the largest industries in Japan, and is growing more rapfdly than any other. The duty oneraw cotton has just been removed and since July it has been admitted free of duty. This imported cotton, other than American, comes from Egypt, India and China. The Indian and Chinese cottons are short staple and the Japanese are compelled to import a good deal of long staple cotton from Egypt, and they purchase a large amount of American cotton in Liverpool and London, importing only a small portion from the American ports. Our long staple cotton is the only long staple that can be used economically in the Japanese mills, and yet we export very little of it direct to Japan. The supposed explanation of this peculiar condition is that ocean freights from England to Japan are much less than the combined railway and ocean freights from an inland American point to Japan. If these statements are true, our people are losing the selling commission or profit, the maritime insurance, and the freightage on a product which is distinctively an American staple, and one necessary to the Japanese factories. In view of these facts, and remembering that the demand for our cotton is already large and is increasing, it ought to be possible for our great cotton interests, acting in harmony with our trans-continental railway lines, to establish a direct trade which would. even on a much lower railway freight rate, swell the profits of the railways and greatly increase the general profits arising from American foreign trade. We might thus, if successful, gain conw York ond we have trol of a trade which would turn its not long us, profits into American channels and give which he declared was the best govern-us an independent market in Asia which for climatic reasons is the greatest market for cotton fabrics in the world, and which, under the impulse of local manufacturing, especially in Japan, is a great market for raw cotton.

The Japanese are willing to deal with us, but they are forced by business prulence to buy in the cheapest market. The thing for us to do is to cheapen the cost of transportation to Japan, and the completion of the Nicaragua canal will enable us to ship our cotton there much cheaper than it can be shipped from Liverpool. Direct trade with this great market will give us control of Asia, and it will then be impossible for Liverpool to fix the price of our cotton, because the markets which she now controls will be our customers, and Liverpool will not be in it at all.

Elections Next Month.

On the 6th of November congressional elections will be held in all the states. and state elections will be held in California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New York, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Wisconsin, Washington and Wyoming.

Full state tickets will be voted for, except in Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Montana, New York, North Carolina, Ohio and Washington. In New York a governor and lieutenant governor and judges will be voted for, and in the others minor officers and judges will be elected.

The populists have full state tickets in every state except in Nebraska and South Carolina. In the former there has been a democratic-populist fusion, and in South Carolina there is no populist ticket. In North Carolina and North Dakota, the republicans and popuilsts have fused. In Nevada the silver men have a ticket, and the prohibitionists have tickets in every state with the exception of Nevada and Tennessee. Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Oregon and Vermont have already held their state elections.

Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Virginia and West Virginia will not hold state elections this fall.

A Remarkable Case.

The case of ex-Vice President Morton's coachman is one of the sensations of the day.

The facts are as follows: Mr. Morton imported an English coachman named Howard. The servant was arrested on the charge that his importation was a violation of the contract labor law which empowers the secretary of the treasury to seize and deport at any time within one year of their arrival all immigrants who come into this country under contracts made on the other side of the water. The law, however, exempts domestic servants, and Mr. Morton's coachman was, therefore, brought before Judge Lacombe on a writ of habeas corpus with a view to securing his release

It would seem that in so plain a case there could be no trouble, but the judge decided that although Howard is a domestic servant, and can be brought to this country without violating the law, the secretary of the treasury has the right to decide whether he can remain in this country. In other words, a domestic servant has the right to come to this country under a contract, but when he arrives the secretary of the treasury has the right to seize him and send him home.

So the writ of habeas corpus is made worthless by the contract labor act and Judge Lacombe's decision. Commenting on the case, The New York Evening Post says:

And now see how it works, how soon its And now see how it works, now soon as monstrosity is demonstrated. In the middle of an exciting political campaign, the secretary of the treasury allows his subordinates to seek out, in the house of a ordinates to seek out, in the house oprominent political candidate, who filled the office of vice president of the United States, one of his "domestic servants," to whom the law had no applica-tion, to arrest him, cart him about the country as a prisoner, and deny the right of the courts to liberate him, although there is no pretense that he is legally held. As a legal correspondent has well pointed out in another column, under this ruling of the supreme court the secretary is so far raised above the law that he might really seize on a native-born po ical opponent, pronounce him an alien immigrant, and deport him. This seems an extravagant supposition, but the law fully warrants it, and it would not greatly surpass in absurdity the treatment of Howard, he coachman, who, as far as the contract labor law is concerned, stands exactly in the position of a native-born citizen. Nothing can prove better the strength of the principles to which the democratic party is wedded than its continued strength and vitality in spite of the acts and opinions of many of its leading men. We do not propose to criticise either Judge Lacombe or Secretary Carlisle. but we do not hesitate to say that the operation of the contract labor law in this instance is a monstrous outrage. Howard, as the court admits, violated no law. He was entitled to the writ of habeas corpus, and yet he cannot obtain his release, and, if it suits Secretary Carlisle's pleasure, he may be sent back to England. The democratic party cannot afford to endorse such Russian methods. This is a land of liberty, and we are not yet ready to invest any one man with the power to banish foreigners who have committed no violation of law, and whose innocence has been established in open

Hamilton's Republican Followers. In a recent speech at Chicago the Hon, Thomas B. Reed said that Alexander Hamilton has thus far found no superior, and perhaps no peer in American statesmanship.

This is a very bold utterance, but it correctly defines the attitude of the republican party. The truth is, too many complimentary things have been said about Alexander Hamilton, and they would never have been said if his death at the hands of Aaron Burr had not created a misplaced sympathy for him. Hamilton was always against the people. Once he advocated the compulsion of congress by the revolutionary army. He wanted to model our government after the British monarchy, rship of real estate a qualification for voting. He proposed that the president should appoint the governors of states who were to have a veto on all state legislation. He declared that It was not safe to trust the people with power. Throughout his political career he was addicted to intrigue treachery, violence and oppression. He favored the alien and sedition laws, although he admitted that they were op pressive. He aided Governor Jay in an attempt to defeat the expressed will of the majority of the voters of New York, and his biographer admits that the scheme was a fraud. "Don't be too scrupulous," said Hamilton to Jay, and this phrase may be taken as the keynote to his character. A close student of his methods characterizes him as indirect and disloyal; the first "boss" in our politics; coarse and cruel, arrogant and unscrupulous, the deadly foe of the people and the last prop of imperialism on this soil. His private life was grossly immoral, and Burr made no empty boast, when, years after he had killed him, he pointed to his bust on a friend's mantel and said: "I made him a great man." The Proposed Reformatory.

The grand jury of Fulton county, of which Dr. J. D. Turner is foreman, deserves the thanks of all good people for having ordered a reformatory for this county.

This action, under the law, must be subnitted to the people for ratification. Ordinary Calhoun will fix the day of election in a day or two, and then the people of this county will have it in their power to order that the chaining of little children to adult criminals shall cease.

While this is work that should be undertaken by the state, yet experience shows that it is useless to wait upon the legislature, and that countles which want to help themselves out of the stigma of putting stripes upon little children, must provide local means for so doing.

Of course, Ordinary Calhoun, who is thoroughly humane man, and who heartily approves of the movement, will lose no time in submitting the matter to the people .

If there is any dark hoss tied out, his friends would do well to stack up food where he can reach it.

It would perhaps be well for The Macon Telegraph to bear in mind that the United States senator elected by Georgia will be in favor of the free coinage of silver by the United States alone and right now. Banker Benedict seems to be on hand by

Says a Richmond, Va., special of Saturday: Young James G. Blaine is studying law at the University of Virginia. He is also center rush of the university football team, and is raising a great row in that place. The University of Virginia is mainly made up of southern youths. The fact that a son of James G. Blaine would attend this institution has caused surprise and comment. The university and Richmond college teams have just had a game, which is now the sub-ject of a heated controversy, and which has resulted in an indignation meeting of the alumni of the university. A statement was published criticising-the university's playing as ungentlemanly and brutal. The alumni held an indignation meeting to protest against this characterization. The criticism was against the action of Blaine, Penton and Johnson, of the university who used their fists on some of the Richmond college team. The boys at the university, however, all stand by Blaine and hi two companions."

Near Cartersville, Ga., October 24, 1894.— Editor Constitution: I have read your editorial in rejoinder to my article, in which I asked you to republish the circular issued by the American Bankers' Association bearing date of August, 1893. Mr. Editor: The figures go to show that the present congress, with its immense democratic majority, is indisputably pledged to the gold standard. So long as Mr. Cleveland leads the party—so long the policy of the administration is pledged to the single gold standard of value. For this reason I antagonize the democratic party which promised the free coinage of silver, is to 1, to the voters in Georgia, when Mr. Cleveland was elected two years ago. I point to this yote on unconditional repeal to show your readers where this people were betrayed—and by whom.

"The establishment of the single gold standard was really the end in view," when Mr. Cleveland was nominated and supported by the money of Havemeyer, Van Alen & Co.

Now I have no sort of objection to allowing all persons the liberty of expressing their political views and of voting for the same; but I do object to following a party which has submerged the prosperity of this nation by deceiving the voters into the support of a single gold standard of value, when these voters believed they were electing representatives to vote the other way. Mr. Editor, the country has passed the limit of forbearance. We must have a change, and that speedily. When we carry cotton to market to buy money, wherewith to pay taxes and other obligations, we must sell a great deal of cotton to purchase very money. Money is so dear, while cotton, wheat, mules and all else the farmer raises are made so cheap, that nothing is left when taxes and guano are paid for. It is dear money that is submerging this land under a tidal wave of bankruptcy and ruln.

Because the purchasing power of gold has been quadrupled, while the agricultural, mining and manufactured products, which make the wealth of the nation, are forced down to zero rates. Editor Constitution-The school year and the calendar year of the state of were, up till 1893, coincident; but the last legislature made the school year correspond with the fiscal year, thereby causing a lapse in school work for six months, and rirtually making this an eighteen months year-from January 1, 1894, to June In making that change, however, the legislature, by a singular oversight, failed to make any provision for the extra six months. The approaching general assembly months. The approaching general assembly will be petitioned to remedy the mistake by a special appropriation to tide over the lapse from January to July, 1895. If this be not done, most of the country schools, at least, will remain closed till the latter date; learge numbers of children will be deprived of that time at school; and a respectable body of teachers will be thrown out of employment. The farmers are, financially, un-able to support their schools as heretofore, on account of the short cotton crop and low on account of the short cotton crop and low price of the same.

I am not an alarmist, nor would I intentionally exaggerate the situation, but in all earnestness I say a crisis in the history of the public schools of Georgia is upon us.

Most of the public schools for 1894 completed the allotted term some time in June; so there will be an interval of more than twelve months before the next public term can commence, unless our lawmakers pro-twelve months before the next public term can commence, unless our leavmakers provide against so ruinous a policy.

So far as Burke county is concerned, a postponement of our schools until July, 1895, will practically close most of them the whole of next year, because, for the sake of health, the white people will not compel their children to attend school during the excessive heat of July and August. After that time the great majority of the children in the rural districts are absolutely neighbor to help in harvesting and marketing the crop. This labor will require the greater part of September, October and November, leaving only one month prior to the Christmas holidays. What is true of Burka county is certainly true of the southern half of Georgia, subject to the same climatic influences.

mas holidays. What is true of Burke county is certainly true of the southern half of Georgia, subject to the same climatic influences.

Let us look at some of the results of the unwise cessation of school work. I. It will send either into other states, or into other businesses, numbers of our best teachers. It will discourage and divert to other work a large number of young men and women who are now in normal and training colleges, if they see that the state closes her schools for so long a period. 3. The prolonged break in school work will, in many ways, prove a lasting injury to the great army of school chizen. It will take a long time for our state schools to rally from the evil effects of this enforced vacation of a twelvemonth, or more. 4. A sad feature connected with this interruption of our school work is this: For a good proportion of the children, each year is the last of their school life; not only the last, but the heat. Is the Empire State of the South roady to close the schoolroom arginst these children who will have passed the lawful school axe before another term shall open? I am informed that once before (1872) the schools were closed a year, the excuse for which was that the republican state government had squandered the money.

Only the pitiful sum of $300,90, is asked to enable the board of education to bridge over this chasm of six months. What an insignificant tax this would prove to our people! With $40,000 on the tax books creal property, say $700,000,000 this would he equivalent to about $0$ cents on $1,000. In this day of financial ruin, a prompt and generous response on the part of the state would prove a grateful act, which would send effectiouragement to many hearts and homes, especially in the country-districts. Cities and towns can, in a measure, take care of themselves—I am pleading for the rural sections.

SENATOR WALSH.

His Visit to Gainesville and His Great Speech at That Place.

From The Georgia Cracker.

The visit of Senator Walsh to Gainesvilast week was an ovation from start

The town laid herself out to do the handsome thing by this distinguished Georgian, and succeeded as she always does when she wills to do a thing.

The senator was met at the train on his arrival from Atlanta by a delegation of leading citizens headed by Mayor Walker. Marshal Dunlap and Major J. H. Butt, and driven to the Arlington hotel, where he held an informal reception, meeting many of our leading citizens. The afternoon was devoted to rest between whiles, driving over the city, a visit to the Georgia seminary and other social courtesies.

At 7:30 o'clock in the evening the spacious auditorium of the county courthouse was packed to the doors with an audience that would have proven an inspiration to a far less appreciative man than Senator Walsh, the fair faces and rich costumes of the ladies mingling in contrast with those of the business men and sturdy yeomanry who ladies minging in contrast with those of the business men and sturdy yeomanry who were out in great numbers.

The speaker was felicitously introduced in cordial words of welcome and brief reference to his work for Georgia and the south by his life-long friend and admirer. Major J. H. Butt, as only that prince of kindly hearted gentlemen could do it, and when the applause long and loud which his eloquent tribute awoke was at last stilled, the senator arose evidently deeply impressed by the warmth of his raception.

It is not within the scope of our purpose to attempt any synopsis of the great speech which, for two hours and twenty minutes, held the closest attention of the great audience. It was a speech worthy of the man and the occasion, of the high position he occupies, and the great principles which he champions. It was, as all great speeches are, plain, practical, direct, dealing with the great questions now on trial before the country in language so simple and conclusive, and fortified so completely by the record, statistics and facts of history remote and recent, that there was no loophole of except from the conclusions to which he

the great questions now on that denore the sive, and fortified so completely by the record, statistics and facts of history remote and recent, that there was no loophole of escape from the conclusions to which he drove with irresistible logic and the power of a pile driver.

The redemption of party piedges, the beneficent results of a reformed tariff, the silver question and the Nicaragua canal, were some of the special points which were interwoven into a powerful and masterly discussion of the great principles of democracy, and a most conclusive argument proving the utter inability of any new political organization to bring any relief from the evils under which the country is now suffering.

At the conclusion of his great speech the senator was the recipient of many handsom floral tributes, and scores pressed ferward to grasp his hand and congratulate him upon his magnificent effort. It is safe to say that if the contest now on should result in his return to the senate a great many people here will be highly statified.

Senator Walsh won upon the people who had the privilege of meeting him while here, no less by his Chesterfieldian graces of manner and social gifts than by his great speech, and will always find a warm welcome among our people whether he comes to us with the dignity and prestige of official station or only as a private citizen.

SENATOR WALSH.

He Was Given a Rousing Reception at the Capitol Last Night.

FOR FREE AND UNLIMITED COINAGE Of Silver and at the Ratio of Sixteen to One.

HE HAS POSITIVE FINANCIAL VIEWS

And He Doesn't Hesitate to Express Them.
A Strong Delense of the Party-The Financial Question the Vital Issue.

For the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. That is where Senator Patrick Walsh stands on the financial question. His views on this subject are positive. He stands with the people for the people's interests, and he did not hesitate to put himself squarely on record in his speech at the capitol last night. Georgia's, senator was given a magnificent ere p. |. The hall of the house of representations was packed with people, among them". humber of ladies and a great many who came late found it impossible to get in at all. The audience was notable. too, not for numbers alone, but for the enasiasm with which the speaker and his remarks were received. It was evident that he reflected the sentiments of that great gathering, especially when he gave his oninon upon the financial question.

The senator made a strong defense of the ecord of the democratic party. He showed that the evils that have befallen the country are the result of republican legislation and the republican ideas of finance especially. He showed how the democratic parto is pushing forward the cause of tariff reform. He said that the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state bank issues would be effected, and in as strong language as the English language furnishes, he declared that the financial question is the vital issue and placed himself on record as favoring the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

Under Mr. Fleming's Escort. senator entered the hall on the arm of Speaker Fleming. As soon as the crowd caught sight of the senator a mighty shout went up and for what seemed a long time there was great and genuine cheering. Slowly they picked their way through the house, the crowd all the time cheering most

It fell to the lot of the speaker to introduce his distinguished fellow citizen.
"Members of the General Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen," said Mr. Fleming,
"the senate of the United States is the highest political body of the foremost nation of the earth. In that lofty presence tion of the earth. In that lofty presence momentous problems affecting the destiny of 70,000,000 of people must be solved. Each sovereign state is represented in that august assemblage by two ambassadors, to whose wisdom and ability she confides her fortunes for weal or for wee. Georgia is now on the eve of choosing one of her ambassadors to sit in council with those from her sister states. With such a glittering prize at stake, what wonder that the county of Muscogee should present her young Napoleon? What wonder that the county of Bibb should name her Chevalier.

young Napoleon? What wonder that the county of Bibb should name her Chevalier Bayard? What wonder that the county of Brooks should bring forward her Daniel Webster? The county of Richmond sends her greetings to these, her sisters, publicly avows her keen appreciation of these noble sons of Georgia; but with a pride born of love for the man with admiration for his sons of Georgia; but with a pride born of love for the man, with admiration for his record as a democrat and a patriot, with supreme faith in his ability as a statesman, she presents her son, fearing comparison with none. In devotion to his country, in capacity to feel and sympathize with the wants of the people, in power to grasp the great, practical business questions which now crowd and press for settlement, he stands the peer of any one of the brainy men who now contest one of the brainy men who now contest with him for this high honor in the senate of the nation. But I will not seek to eulogize him further. He is here to discuss in your hearing the vital issues of the hour. Let him speak for himself. I have the pleasure of presenting to you the junior senator from Georgia, the Hon. Patrick Walsh, of the county of Richmond." Mr. Walsh Begins.

The senator opened his speech with a strong defense of the democratic party. He recalled the fact that during the term of Mr. Cleveland's first administration the democrats did not have control of the legislative crats did not have control of the legislative branch of the government, and claimed that in the short time they had had control of the house and senate, the democrats had accomplished more toward relieving the needs of the people than had any other congress in the past thirty years. The evils that have fallen upon the country, he said, could not honestly be, laid af the door of the democratic party.

Mr. Walsh reviewed what had been done by the repeal of the federal election law and showed how much that had helped the and showed how much that had helped the south. Then he said that congress has ac-complished so much in tariff reform. The bill that became a law is a practical step complished so much in tariff reform. The bill that became a law is a practical step in the right direction and has accomplished much in taking the tariff off of the necessities and placing such tariff as may be necessary upon the luxuries.

Mr. Walsh gave a clear resume of the bill and the amounts it saved to the people. He showed the injustice of the system of protective duties, especially to the people of the south and west who have to sell their products in the open markets of the world. For thirty years, under the republican system, New England and the middle states have been enormously benefited by protection. They have robbed the south of more than she lost by the war; and these states have contributed to those industries more than their entire wealth. The democratic tariff reform bill for the first time in thirty years removes some of these exactions—to the amount of $200,000,000 per year. But this is not all the democratic party proposes to do; it proposes to keep it up until the people get justice. Tariff reform is a vital principle of the democratic party, and it will keep up the fight until so thoroughly as possible the tax will be taken off the necessities and placed upon the luxurics.

As to the Sugar Tax.

As to the Sugar Tax. As to the sugar tax, Mr. Walsh explained he bounty system of the republicans and he tax on refined sugar, most of which went to the sugar people and very little into the treasury.

Of course the democratic party ought to put sugar, fron and coal on the free list, he said, but the senators had to make conwilson bill and the senate bill, but a stion between the senate bill or noth-

A reference to Senator Hill and the mag-nificent fight that he is making in New York brought forth a round of hearty ap-

Morrison bill.

If the tariff bill contained nothing but the income tax, it would deserve heartiest commendation. The income tax has come to stay, he said. He showed how well this had worked not only in this country but especially in England, where the system of taxation is eminently just and where 40 per cent of the revenues is raised by the imposition of the income tax.

Then as he opened up on the financial question, everybody was at attention. This is a synopsis of what he said:

The Great Living Vital Issue," continued Senator Walsh, "is the currency question. I wish to make this declaration: It would have been impossible for the United States to have resumed specie payments were it not for the exports contributed by the west and south. In 1892 $1,000,000,000 of products were exported. The New England and middle states contributed only 15 per cent of that. The south and west keep the balance of trade in favor of this country and the south and the west have brought the volume of gold into this country. England is the great creditor nation of the world. Had it not been for the south and the west bringing the gold into this country this country never could have resumed specie payments. All the laws for thirty years passed by the republican government have robbed the people of the south and west. Old England is the creditor nation to the amount of the enormous sum of $10,000,000,000.

When England was invited to engage in a movement looking to international agreement Mr. Gladstone asked, "why should movement looking to international agree-ment Mr. Gladstone asked, why should England be in favor of bimetallism when, since 1816, she has had gold as the unit and standard of value?" She has been upon the gold basis since then and wherever her influence has extended it has been to destroy silver. Mr. Gladstone said it was not a mere matter of sentiment, that it is a cold business proposition. "There is a wonderful community of interest between the capital of this country and of Europe. There is no man today who can tell exactly how silver was demonstrated. Democrats and republicans alike who voted for that bill declared they did not know what they were voting for. The moment that silver was demonetized all the vast volumes of securities increased in value. It is fair to presume that this demonetization was for the benefit of the bondholders and moneyed men. There are eminent financiers who declare that the failure to remonetize silver has brought about the industrial trouble. Demonetization has the offect of the control tion has the effect of appreciating the value of gold and depreciating the value of all commodities. Silver has gone down and wheat and cotton have gone down with it. It is an alarming condition of affairs.

Law of Supply and Demand. "Now it is eminently certain that supply and demand govern the price of a commodity. Will not that same rule establish this principle: If the supply of gold be limited on account of the great competition throughout the world will not the price of gold be forced up? They can speculate in gold, and do so. The nations of the world want all the gold they can get, and the result is the competition has increased the value of it. They say the supply of the white metal became so great that it depreciated in value as a commodity. Statistics show that there is more gold than silver."

Mr. Walsh gave some interesting figures on this point. He showed that it was not until silver was demonetized that it fell so rapidly in price.

The Sherman law, he said, was nounced as a cowardly makeshift, but the Sherman law is not responsible for the depression of 1893 and today. The capitalists used it simply as an excuse to secure the repeal of that law. It is not true that it precipitated this distress. The wrong of that law was that it simply treated of that law was that it simply treated silver as a mere commodity. That was the injustice and the mischief of the Sherman law. It did not recognize silver as the money of the constitution.

"Suppose we had the free and unlimited coinage of silver!" The sentiment was greeted by hearty applause. "Suppose," he continued, "we were even on a silver basis. Could the farmers of the west and south be in the sad condition they are now? Impossible?"

"This question is paramount. International agreement is a delusion. Great Britain will never consent to it until she is forced to do never consent to it until she is forced to do it; nor will the capitalists of the east until under the banner of the democratic party!"

This was greeted by heartiest applause.
It the law of supply and demand regulates the price of wheat and cotton, why does it not apply to gold? he asked,

here. It will be a revolution of peace, but on that account.

"Sliver is just as much the money of the constitution as gold," repeated the senator, with emphasis, and the big crowd cheered him to the echo.

"I am hopeful of the future—full of hope. But I do not see, with all my confidence, I do not see how prosperity is to come as long as this great crime against silver goes unpunished."

The Question of Ratio. "They say," he continued, "we will not be able to preserve parity and that we will be drawn to a silver basis alone if we adopt free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1. If the democratic party in its platform at Chicago meant anything, if it meant to be honest, that declaration meant 16 to 1 and nothing else!"

Then there was loud and prolonged cheer-Then there was to this day there has never been a dollar coined at any of the United States mints except at that ratio-today the seigniorage is being coined at the ratio of 16 to 1. That is the honest interpretation of the platform of the party.

any of the United States mints except at that ratio—today the seigniorage is bing coined at the ratio of 16 to 1. That is the honest interpretation of the platform of the party.

"We hear the cry of honest dollar? Don't you want an 'honest dollar?' they ask. Of course we do. We want every dollar to possess the same debt-paying and purchasing power as every other. And that will be the case at 16 to 1. If we wait until international agreement to restore silver, in my opinion England will never agree, and there will be none. This government must take the responsibility and adopt the free and unlimited coinage of silver."

This unequivocal declaration caused continued cheering. It was some time before the senator could proceed.

"Sixteen to one is the honest ratio. It has been in existence in this country for fifty years. This country is independent of all the nations of the world. For a hundred years we have been able to hold our own and not until this crime against silver was there such depression. And yet in the midst of plenty, what do we see? The crops are abundant, but there is depression everywhere except in the middle and eastern states. I have authorities here which I could read, that predicted when silver was demonetized that exactly this state of affairs would result from it."

Senator Walsh spoke of the necessity of the repeal of the 19 per cent tax on state bank issues, and said this was one of the reforms that the democrats expect to bring about. Then, concluding, he said:

'Acceptablemen, these are great questions. I have gone over hurriedly the leading issues. I have deep convictions in reference to this currency question. Protection in this country is dead. Now the currency question is the vital issue of the day. The moneyed men of our country are just like the people of Great Britam—the people of New England say to the people of the south and west, they will never voluntarily surrender the vantage they have. This fight must go on. What the democratic party ought to give us free colton machinery; i

A Burglar on Houston Street Walks Away with a Money Drawer and Its Contents-Chicken Thief Caught.

A case somewhat different from the affairs usually looked into by the detectives came up yesterday and showed several rather strange phases.

During the morning a middle-aged lady went to the office of Hampton & Herman, a Broad street real estate firm. She unrolled a deed made out by them several years ago to a lot of property just outside the city limits.

She asked that the name on the deed be

She asked that the name on the deed be changed. "This is made out in the name of Maybell Jones," she said. "It should have been made out in my name and I want it corrected."

Mr. Herman, to whom the application was made, opened his eyes suspiciously. He happened to remember the circumstances connected with the deed as it was originally made by him three years before. Maybell Jones, he informed the woman, was a girl eight years old who had been injured in a wreck on the Georgia road. She had compromised with the road and received $1,600. This had been invested in land by her father and the deed which the woman held was made out for that property.

The woman denied this account of the agent, insisting that there was no Maybell Jones and that the paper should have been Jones and that the paper should have been fixed in her name, which was Annie Jones. Mr. Herman thought that something was wrong about the affair and told his visitor to return in the afternoon. In the meantime he proceeded to police headquarters and reported the matter to Captain Thomosoh.

When he returned Detective Wooten accompanied him, and remained in the office. When the lady came back to renew the application Mr. Jones was with her. Both insisted that there was no such person as Maybell Jones and that the property really belonged to the woman. The detective stepped out and asked the man if it was not true that Maybell Jones was his daughter and that he was trying to get charge of the property in order to sell it.

The man denied this persistently. The information which the detective had, however, was positive and under his numerous questions the woman wilted. She reluctively acknowledged that they were trying antly acknowledged that they were trying to dispose of their child's property without her knowledge. After the discovery of her attempt at fraud she was very repentant and said that only poverty had forced her to it, Upon the promise of the people to return the deed to their child the detective agreed to let the case drop.

"It was a queer instance of parental per-fidy," said one of the officers connected with the case. "I can't understand how they could have the heart to rob their little crippled child."

Causes a Good Deal of Interest in Railroad Circles. The appointment of Captain V. F. McBee as general superintendent of transportation of the Seaboard Air-Line causes quite a deal of interest in the railroad world. Captain McBee is the most noted railroad superintendent in the south, perhaps, and is liked by everybody. He is a Napoleon when it comes to manipulating the transpor-tion department of a railroad, and did as much to make the old Richmond and Danwille as perfect as it was in this line as any man in the entire directory of officers. The fact that Captain McBee has accepted a position with a rival line of his old com-pany, the Richmond and Danville, springs the prediction at the first blush that he will be ever alert to make all the more perfect the condition of the schedule of the Sea-board, for it is likely that the whole story board, for it is likely that the whole story about Captain McBee's resignation from the superintendency of the old Richmond and Danville has never come to light.

There was a good deal of talk about it at the time. Captain McDee had dore a great deal towards making the old Richmond and Danville what it was. He was looked upon as the best superintendent in the sec-tion. And yet when the Southern bought the old Richmond and Danville with a suddenness mysterious to contemplate Captain McBce sent in his resignation to the company.

The full story may or may not have ever come to the top surface, but it is believed that the recent appointment of Captain McBee to take charge of the transportation department of the Seaboard, a deadly rival of the Southern, will mean that he will work just a little harder to "do" his rival than he would under ordinary circumstances.

than he would under ordinary circumstances.

The News from Columbia.

Columbia, S. C.. October 25.—(Special.)—Captain V. E. McBee, formerly superintendent of the Richmond and Danville lines in North and South Carolina, has been appointed general superintendent of transportation of the Seaboard Air-Line system, with headquarters in Atlanta. The exact date of the assumption of his duties has not yet been announced, but he has been summoned to Atlanta, where he goes tonorrow. This position will, place him next in rank to General Manager John H. Winder, of that system. The office to which he has been appointed is a new one said to have been created for him. The Seaboard Air-Line system formerly had no transportation superintendents, but the duties of such officers were conducted by the masters of trains. Captain McBee is known as a railroad genius, and his great abilities for the management of men are everywhere recognized. He began his railroading when he aided in the building of the Western North Carolina road. He then became superintendent of the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta railroad and raised it out of the zire. Then he became superintendent of the Richmond and Danville lines in North and South Carolina. This position he held

SOCIETY GOSSIP.

The debut dinner party given last evening by Miss Lucy Peel in compliment to Miss Cornella Jackson was certainly one of the most delightful and brilliant society events Atlanta has known for many a day. It was, indeed, a scene of beauty and loveliness, and the memory of it will linger for a long time in the minds of the gay and happy company that gathered at the bidding of the fair young hostess. The handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Peel was fairly alive with brilliant lights, and the life of merriment and joy. The decorations were beauteous and pleasing to the eye. Half a hundred young people reveled in the delights of the evening until a late hour and reluctanly left the scene of gayety and social pleasure even then. The dinner was served in the spacious and lovely music room, which was gorgeously affame with the brilliancy of electric lights blending to a charm beneath the variegated hues of the soft delicately colored fresco-The table, which was I, shaped, was a

The dinner was a delight Music from a superb orchestra added greatly to the pleasure of the evening and smoothed down the buzzing clatter of merry conversation most pleasingly.

Miss Peel was never seen to better advantage, and looked simply lovely in all her blooming youth and natural charms. The manner in which she received her numerous friends was certainly in accord with all that goes to make her what she is-a most lovely and lovable young scion of a most estimable and aristocratic Georgia family.

Misc Cornelia, to whose particular name the dinner was given in compliment, was charming in all that has endeared her to the hearts of her numerous friends in the social realm of Atlanta. Having just re-turned from an extensive trip to Europe Miss Jackson found this an occasion to meet again many of her friends whom she has not seen for more than a year, and the manifestations on their part of gratification and delight to see her once more at home were sufficient to tell that her wel-come back to Atlanta is cordial to an ex-

Colonel Martin Withdraws.

Atlanta, Ga.. October 25., 1894.—I tender my heartfelt thanks to the many devoted friends who have so zealously urged my promotion to associate justice of the supreme court. My especial gratitude is evoked by those friends who of their own volition so generously put aside all business matters and came to Atlanta to work in my behalf. In the strong endorsements given to me by members of the general assembly, the bar and distinguished citizens and officials of the state, outside of the Oconec circuit, I have been honored beyond my humble merits.

In the support accorded me by the bar of every county in my circuit, the unant mous and warm support of every member of the legislature from the circuit, the formal endorsements by the grand juries, the officials and the people, I realize with gratitude that no man ever had truer or more loyal friends. I admit an ambition, laudable, I believe, to have been honored with this hich position, and while I now believe that I have a support equal to any of the eminent gentlemen who have been mentioned for it, yet I know that this support is not sufficient to insure success without a protracted contest and being unwilling at this time to participate in such contest, I request that my name shall not be presented as a candidate. Respectfully,

THE COUNT WAS MADE YESTERDAY

The Nominee for Governor Ran Less Than 8,000 Behind the Others.

THE SECOND DAY OF THE LEGISLATURE

There Was but Little Done Outside of the Count-Gossip About the Senatorial Situation-How the Bets Run.

The time of the legislature yesterday was taken up principally with the count of the votes, or rather the consolidation of the returns of the last election for governor and statehouse officers. Under the law the official count is made by the legislature, and at 11 o'clock yesterday the two divisions of that body got together and began this work.

As soon as the senate members had come to the house and President Venable had called the joint assembly to order, Mr. Harris, senator from the twenty-second district, moved the appointment of five tellers to supervise the vote. His motion prevailed and President Venable appointed Senators Broughton and Beeks, and Messrs. Mell, Barnes and Hogan. Preceding the senate in its march down the center aisle had been two porters, who bore a large covered basket, which was securely locked and which contained the official returns from the different counties.

The roll call of counties began and until late in the afternoon the general assembly was kept listening to the monotonous reading of the returns. Captain Tip Harrison, of the executive department, kept the official tally sheet and in making additions the tellers were assisted by Captain Furlow, of the tax department.

The official count for governor and secretary of state is given by counties below. The totals foot up as follows: Governor-Atkinson, 121,049; Hines, 96,-

Secretary-Candler, 124,862; Nance, 92,764. Comptroller-Wright, 125,295; Kemp, 92,-Treasurer-Hardeman, 125,161; Jones, 93,-

ROUTINE OF THE HOUSE.

There Was Little Done Outside of the Consideration of the Returns.

The house was opened by prayer by Rev. Mr. Hurst, member from Walton county. Mr. Hurst, member from Walton county. Immediately after the journal had been read Mr. Branan, of Fulton, was recognized and introduced a resolution inviting Hon. Louis F. Garrard to address the general assembly at half-past 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Then Mr. Rockwell, of Chatham, submitted a similar resolution inviting Hon. Henry G. Turner to address the legislature Wednesday evening, and Mr. Polhill, of Jacon, introduced one inviting Hon. A. J. Bacon to speak on Monday evening a the same hour. All of the opposed the motion, but Mr. Harrison thought that it was no more than fair that those gentlemen who would naturally be greatly disturbed by the noise and the crowd around the entrance should be placed in a more advantageous position. He pointed out that this had been done in the last house and the plan worked well. Mr. Doolan finally moved to commit the Mr. Doolan finally moved to commit the resolution to the committee on rules of the house when such committee should be appointed. THE SENATORIAL SITUATION As It Appeared to Outside Observers Yesterday.

Either the manager of the various ser atorial campaigns are way off in their calculations, or else there is a surplus of Munchausenism in the present legislature. The manager of each senatorial candidate makes claims that in the aggregate exceed tivice the actual number of democratic state legislature. Just which candidate it known. It is very hard to tell just how many votes each candidate has, though it is known that Maojr Bacoh is very far in the lead, and yesterday it appeared very much like he would prove a winner on the Major Bacon's friends claimed yesterday that he had 95 votes certain, and that his strength might be as much as a hundred or more. Mr. Turner's friends claimed to have been making gains steadily. They that the wiregrass statesman has not less than 70 votes. Mr. Garrard's friends, for the first time, were decidedly enthusiastic and apparently happy yesterday. They claimed not less than 45 votes and that Mr Garrard will be the man who will do the heaviest drafting after the first ballot. Senator Walsh is making no great claims but he and his friends are counting upon the failure to elect upon the first, second or third ballots, and they then believe that he will prove a winner. Mr. Walsh is undoubtedly a very strong second choice with the members of the legislature. Just what effect the visit of his friends from Augusta will have upon the legislators cannot be told for several days.

Outside sources yesterday were strongly inclined to the opinion that Major Bacon's managers about had the thing fixed. They were of the opinion that even if Mr. Baco failed to win on the first ballot, he was sure to be elected on the second or third. It is a fact that many members who are pledged to other candidates have announce ed for Major Bacon for second choice They believe he is a man thoroughly fitted in every way to represent the state of Georgia in the United States senate, and that he would be a credit to the state.

There was very little dark-horse talk yesterday, although it is understood that several would-be dark horses are figuring about to defeat Senator Walsh for the short term. There are a number of these men who would like to serve a few months in the senate. But this opinion was not indulged in by any members of the legislature. It is a foregone conclusion that Senator Walsh will be re-elected to the short term to serve until the 4th of next March. The legislators and the people are in the senate and had he entered the canvass earlier he would have stood a much better chance of being elected to the long

Several even bets were made in the Kimball last night that Bacon would be elected and there was one bet that he would win on the first ballot.

It has been arranged for all the senatorial candidates to speak to the legislature next week. Major Bacon will speak Monday night; Mr. Garrard Tuesday night and Mr. Turner Wednesday night.

Mr. Boynton, of Calhoun, submitted a joint resolution, providing for the opening of the returns at 11 o'clock, which was adopted and subsequently concurred in by the senate.

Mr. Hodge reported on the committee's notification of the governor that the legislature was in session, and shortly afterwards Captain Harrison, of the executive department, put in appearance with the governor's message.

Mr. Harrison, of Quitman, moved that the three seats nearest the center aisle of the outer tier of seats on each side of the main entrance be moved to the vacant spaces at the right and left of the speaker's desk. Mr. Rockwell and Mr. Polhill opposed the motion, but Mr. Harrison

GOSSIP IN THE LOBBIES.

Editor Pleasant A. Stovall, of The Savannah Press, has been in the city several days, writing up the political situation for his paper and aiding his friends in their contests. Than Pleas Stovail there is no brighter editor on the American press.

Editor Chick Niles, of The Columbus Enquirer-Sun, is also here and is writing some interesting and readable letters to Colonel Niles is one of the most popular of the newspaper fraternity of the state, as well as one of the brightest. He is always given a warm welcome in Atlanta and, indeed, wherever he goes in

Mr. Sanders McDaniel, of Monroe, was about the capitol yesterday, putting in some good work for his friends. Mr. McDaniel is one of the bright young lawyers of the state and from present indications will be a successful candidate for the legislature two years hence himself.

Popular Boykin Wright, of Augusta, is doing some splendid work here in favor of Senator Walsh and Judge Roney. Mr. Wright is not only very popular, but he is one of the cleverest politicians in the state. He it was who managed Major Black's campaign in the tenth two years ago, and he is now managing it again. He predicts that Major Black will certainly be returned to the next congress from the

The mention of Dr. Whitley as contestant to the seat in the senate of the gen tleman representing the thirty-sixth district made it appear that the doctor is a populist. As a matter of fact, he is one of the strongest democrats in Georgia and the man who is now holding the seat, Hon. Bion Williams, is a strong populist. Dr. Whitley's friends claim that he has excellent grounds for contest and they believe there is no doubt of his being seated.

One of the strongest Walsh men on the ground and one who is doing hard work for his friend, is Hon. Martin V. Calvin who so ably represented Richmond county in several successive legislatures. Mr. Cal-vin has a wide acquaintance through the state and as he is a man in whom his friends always place the deep st confidence, his labors in behalf of Senator Walsh have

Hon. J. M. Dupree, who is serving by appointment as solicitor general of the Southwestern circuit, finds many friends and party supporters among the members of the senate and of the house. Colonel Dupree was appointed by the governor to fill the office made vacant by the death of Solicitor General Hudson, who had held it for a number of years, and he has given thorough satisfaction in that office. He is one of the most popular fellows in Georgia and although his opponent, Hon. J. B. Hudson, is also a popular man, Jim's friends do not hesitate to predict that the legislature will endorse the action of the governor in appointing him.

SOLICITOR RICHARDSON.

His Excellent Record in Office Deserv ing of Democratic Re-Endorsement, Colonel Fielder Withdraws.

From The Cedartown Standard.

If any judicial circuit in Georgia has had a better solicitor general than Colonel Arma better solicitor general than Colonel Armstead Richardson, of the Tallapoosa circuit, the fact has not come to our knowledge.

He has been fearless and indefatigable in the discharge of the duties of his responsible office, and his administration has been a terror to evil-doors—so much so that crime has been steadily on the decrease throughout the circuit during the past four years.

Conscientious, shrewd, logical, he impress-

Conscientious, shrewd, logical, he impress ed his knowledge of law on the court and fought his way straight to the hearts of jurymen when the peace and dignity of the state has been outraged by the criminal.

When the new Tallapocea circuit was formed no lawyer could be found who would oppose him, while on the other hand he had the endorsement of every member of the bar in the entire circuit in his race for solicitor general. He was elected without a dissenting vote to fill that responsible position of trust by the legislature four years his merit deserved and one for which his legal talents eminently fit

Colonel Richardson has been influenced by neither fear nor favor in the discharge of his official duties. He has made a record of his official duties. He has made a record during his first term in office of which he can well be proud, and it is quite likely that the legislature next week will place on that record the seal of democratic endorsement by a triumphant re-election.

The fact that Judge Janes and Solicitor General Richardson have been particularly stated by the third party for defeat, has had the effect of rousing their democratic friends throughout the circuit and the state to especial activity in their behalf.

Colonel W. K. Fielder, who was a strong candidate for the solicitor generalship, has withdrawn from the race and is actively at work for Colonel Richardson.

CRISP GIVEN AN OVATION

At Shelbyville, Tenn.-Mrs. Myrick Introduced Him to the People. Speaker Charles F. Crisp received a great evation along the road that he traveled yesterday in a special car, but it was at Shelbyville, Tenn., that he was received with the most enthusiasm, and it came about in an interesting way.

Shelbyville, Tenn., is the old home of Mrs. Lcuise Myrick, editor of The Americus Times-Recorder. She was in that town on a visit when she learned that Speaker Crisp would pass through. Now, the speaker and Mrs. Myrick live in the sams town, and in her editorials Mrs. Myrick advocated him for election to the promiment position he is now in.

When his car rolled into Shelbyville, much to Mr. Crisp's surprise, he saw Mrs. Myrick standing at the station. It was only a few minutes before she had boarded the train and sought him out. She then led him to the platform of his car and there introduced him to the several hundred peo-ple that gathered to see him. He made a short talk and was wildly cheered. It was pretty little incident.

J MR. GRAVES'S LECTURE.

He Will Speak at DeGive's One Week from Tonight.

One week from tonight Mr. John Temple Graves will lecture at DeGive's opera "The Reign of the Demagogue," the lecture that has gained such wonderful fame, will be delivered by him, and there is no doubt but that a packed house will greet him. This lecture has been delivered throughout the country and has everywhere been received with a great ovation. The lecture next Friday night will be under the auspices of the South Carolina Club. He will be introduced by President Sam Wilkes, and a delegation of prominent South Carclinians will occupy seats on the stage. The lecture is sure to be an im-mense success in every way. Mr. Graves is one of the most polished and delightful lecturers in the field.

GINHQUSES BURNED.

The first was that of the ginhouse and contents belonging to James Clarke, at Clarke's mills, in Terrell county; also the ginhouse of Bynum & Strickland, on the line of Dougherty and Terrell counties. Eight bales of cotton and a large lot of seed were lost in the latter fire. Russell's Sway in Savannal Russell's Sway in Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., October 25.—(Special.)—
Editor William Orr, who was struck with a cane by County Treasurer Waring Russell last night, swore out a warrant against the latter today charging him with assault with intent to murder. Up to tonight the warrant had not been served. The warrant was sworn out before Justice Elsinger. Three other justices were first approached, and said while they would issue the warrant if it was demanded, still they would prefer not to do so, as it would place them in an embarrassing position. The justices are all allied with the Russells in politics.

Carter Tate Will Win.

Demorest, Ga., October 25.—(Special.)—J.
N. Twitty, the populist candidate for congress for this, the ainth district, spoke here today to a mixed crowd numbering by actual count exactly twenty-two people, including children. Of the crowd only seven were of Mr. Twitty's faith. No enthusiasm was aroused, of course. A prominent democrat, after hearing the speech, said: "I never was so proud of Carter Tate in my life." Habersham county will give Tate a handsome majority.

Another Candidate for Congress.

Yorkville, S. C., October 25.—(Special.)—
Another independent democratic candidate has announced himself for congress in the fifth district of this state. He is Mr. Q. W. Chalk, of Union county. This makes the second independent, the other beins Mr. W. R. Davie, of Chester county, both running against Hon. I. J. Strait, the regular nominee of the party. Mr. Davie is opposed to the free coinage of silver; Mr. Strait is in favor of it, and Mr. Chalk has not been heard from on the subject.

MEDLOCK-MERRITT CASE CONCLUDED NEWEST AND CHOICEST IMPORTATION

> The Auction Sale of Fine Furnitur Continues Today at 10 a. m. and 3 p. m.

The auction sale of fine furniture that has been going on at 15 and 17 Marietta street, P. H. Snook & Son's old stand, will terminate Saturday night. As was announced in the early part of the week, the Rhodes, Snook & Haverty Company purchased the entire outfit of a factory in the west at about 20 cents on the dollar, and they have been offering these goods at auction to the highest bidder for the past few days. Today the sale will continue as usual, at 10 o'clock in the morning and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The greatest bargains in furniture that were ever obtained in this city were secured at the auction sale yesterday. Of course today will not be an exception to the rule and if you want something up to date in the furniture line don't forget to attend the sale today. On tomorrow at 10 o'clock there will be offered at auction to the highest bidder art squares, rugs, carpets, lace curtains, portieres and kindred goods. This class of goods has not been offered this week. Many of these goods are direct importations and if you want anything in the carpet or drapery line now is the time. It is paradoxical, yet one can go to the auction sale tomorrow morning no doubt and save money by spending it. The winter is coming on and you want some nice heavy rugs, carpets, mattings, some new curtains, and as these goods must be sold and offered to the highest bidder you stand a good opportunity of securing them at about one-third their original cost if they sell in proportion to what the furniture has been selling during the week. Don't forget the sale this morning and this afternoon of fine furniture, and be sure and remember that at 10 o'clock in the morning the auction sale of carpets, rugs and draperies will be inaugurated. 15 and 17 Marietta street.

It is a household name—it is a world-known work--it has been the standard Encyclopædia for over a century--it is the highest authority on any subject, topic or thing—it has never yet disappointed the knowledge-seeker, and it never will. It is for the young, the old, the rich, the poor, the learned, the unlearned. It is the most democratic of books, for it goes into all homes. LIVERPOOL WEAK. NEW ORLEANS STRONG

Speculation Was Suddenly Aroused Yes terday, the Coalers Being the Feature, Wheat Ruled Within a 3-8c Range.

There was activity in the cotton market yesterday, and January, after opening 3 points lower and losing 2 points additional, sold 3 points above Wednesday's close, but the extreme advance was not held, the close being about 2 points below the highest and 1 point above the previous closing, though spots closed 1-16c lower.

In the market for spots in Liverpool yesterday a fair business was done, but prices were in buyers' power on the opening but later the tone became easier and quota-tions were marked down 1-3d-middling 3 1-3d-with sales of 15,000 bales at the reduction. The arrival market closed at a de-cline of 3½ points, 3 or which were lost at the opening. The tone at the close was

There was a decided improvement in transactions on the stock exchange with a better distribution of business than for a long time, and some stocks that have been quoted only once a day for several days showed great activity during the entire session, but the activity has been at the expense of values which has been the case on all spurts of activity lately in that market.

Lackawanna led the list both in point of activity and decline. That stock opened unchanged from the close of the evening previous, but immediately commenced to sag and it only took a short time for it to record a decline of % per cent. From the lowest point there was a recovery of 1% per cent, but the closing quotations, as compared with Wednesday's close show a loss of 2% per cent.

Northwest came next in activity, follow ed by American Cotton Oil and General The first named opened unchanged from the day before and closed at the lowest point—% per cent below Wednesday. American Cotton Oil opened % per cent higher and closed with a loss of 1 for the day. General Electric is only 1/8 per cent

A Sudden Onslaught on the Anthracite Conl Shares.

New York, October 25 .- The monotony at the stock exchange was rudely disturbed today by a sudden onslaught on the anthracite coal shares. Heavy selling for both the long and short accounts carried Delaware and Hudson down to 126½-5 points, New Jersey Central ¾ to 104, Lacka-wanna 3½ to 162% and Reading 1 to 17¼. The break was ascribed to rumors of an impending dissolution of the coal combination because of the heavy over-production and the cutting of prices. So far as the disruption of the coal combination goes it can be said the sales agents at their meeting late in the day decided to advance stove 25 cents and all other sizes 15 cents per ton for November delivery. The pro-duction, however, was not restricted as usual and the companies can mine, if so inclined, to their full capacity. On the announcement of the advance in coal Delaware and Hudson rallied 2¼ to 128½, New Jersey Central 2 to 106, Lackawanna 1% to 1641/4 and Reading 1/4 to 18. Late in the day Jersey Central returned to 104 regular, and 102½ seller 60, Reading to 17¼, Delaware and Hudson to 128 and Lackawanna to 164. The general list showed a rising at one time exhibited an ad vance of 4@1% per cent. The feeling was a little more confident on account of the recommendation of the Central Traffic Association that grain and provisions rates be raised 5 cents per 100, to take effect November 1st, the comparatively good showing made by the Pennsylvania for Senfor the third week of the current month. reported by some of the minor systems.

Again sterling exchange appears to be weakening, rendering gold exports less likely this week. Rock Island was benefited by the announcement that the Minnesota and St. Louis reorganization committee has turned over the $4,000,000 due it for equipment. Lake Shore was sold down 2 to 1331/2 early in the day and later rallied to 134%. In the closing dealings the general market was firm and the Coalers a shade easier. Speculation left off steady. Net changes show losses of 1 to 31/4 per cent in the Anthracite Coalers, 1/4@5/8 per cent in the general list and gains of 1/4 to ½ per cent in Western Union, St. Paul, Rock Island, Louisville and Nashville, Mis-

Financial Gossip.

Financial Gossip.

From The New York Stockholder.

With few exceptions lower quotations were made Tuesday, but dealings were the lightest in weeks—33,000 shares—and at the close the prospect for gold shipments Saturday was favorable. Should the latter outlook be reversed today or tomorrow, which is improbable, purchases will be in order, with the short interest the basis for a traders' raily.

Louisville and the low-prized southern properties, whose carnings are on the improve; Burlington, which is oversold, and Sugar and Chicago Gas, in which manipulators are interested, should do to buy for a turn. As regards a buil market with farm products depressed, exchange high and earnings much worse than anticipated, that of the near future will be limited to a movement of 2 to 5 per cent, and will be engineered by manipulators anxious to unload large blocks of stocks.

Among the unfavorable financial features of Tuesday was an advance in sterling. The general impression on the opening of business early in the morning hours was that indications were against shipments of gold. That view was hardly expressed in printed form and disseminated among brokers' offices when exchange hardened.

Messrs. Brown Bros. & Co. posted an advance about noon to $4.88 for short bills and $4.89 for long. The actual rate for the latter was practically as high as it has been during this abnormal season. Bankers reported the supply of bills very light and in the afternoon it was the opinion of well-informed people that after all gold would go out at the close of the week.

Europe was not a potent factor speculatively though London sent lower quotations. Cotton had a speculative rally and there was talk of farmers holding back their product for better prices. As regards the immediate effect of the latter on exchange it would be continued firmness in rates. As to the market for the staple the effect there allimately would be lower prices than ever.

Holding back wheat when it sold on the Holding back wheat when it som on the dollar basis did not prevent the great decline which the holding back was designed to avert, but rather hastened it. Planters will make a serious mistake if they follow the policy of the wheat growers in 1891-92.

A decrease of over a quarter of a million dollars reported by St. Paul in gross earnings for the third week in July is hardly calculated to encourage speculative holders. Notwithstanding all the talk about the world's fair business a year ago, it is plain to railroad men, though not as yet to the public, that the real explanation of the enormous decrease lies deeper than the fair.

Leaving 1893 entirely out of the question and taking the best road in the west-barring the Alton—as an illustration, and it will be found that the earnings of the property referred to, the Chicago and Northwestern, make a most discouraging showing compared with normal years. Take its September statement.

Notwithstanding that it operated last month 793 miles more than in September, 1892, earnings this years were $465,000 less. The falling off compared with 1891 was $443,000, though the increase in mileage last month was the same as compared with 1892. Compared with 1890 the increase in mileage was $16. Yet the decrease in earnings was $288,000.

Traffic features at the west were as before. The roads continue to distribute wheat between primary markets at the rate of 900,000 bushels a day. But two points received yesterday the bulk of this, as heretofore, Minneapolis and Duluth. Thus these spring wheat points had 1,080 cars, or 118 more than last year.

On the other hand arrivals at Chicago were 203 cars, 85 less. Coming to corn, western points received some five hundred thousand bushels less than in 1993, while Chicago had only 228 cars; a year ago, 741; decrease, 513. The movement of this cereal, in view of the fact that the weather has been so favorable, is remarkably light.

Northern Pacific was the feature to the bankrupt group and declined nearly 2 points, ending at the lowest price. In addition to the deplorable showing made by the recently issued annual report the property has had to contend against the difficulty of selling receivers' certificates. The latter were offered unsuccessfully at public sale.

As they pay 6 per cent, and as money is 1 per cent, it is to be inferred that the bankers, who are not in business for their health, staid away from the sale, knowing that the certificates would have to be disposed of privately, which will how be done. In view of the stagnant condition of the money market the $5,000,000 certificates should be readily absorbed.

Closing Stock Review.

New York, October 25.—Foreign and Dometic News Company, by Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager: The stock market was generally firm in the closing hour and there was a fresh outburst of strength in the grangers, stimulated by covering of shorts by Wheeler and Cammack brokers.

A more favorable interpretation of the situation in the west led to more speculative buying of all the railroad group, but room traders took profits and checked the advancing tendency.

The raid against the coal stocks was successfully parried by developments of an investment demand on the strength of the harmonious action of sales agents in ad-Stevens & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

more New Orleans sent buying orders here, showing its faith by its works. Early in the day prices here declined 5 points, but this was recovered and they then advanced 263 points and closed duil but steady with sales of 112,700 bales. Loverpool declined 1-32d on spots and 3½d on futures, closing steady, spot sales there 15,600. The Bombay receipts for the week were only 3,000 bales, against 5,000 for the same week last year. Spots were 1-16c lower at New York, Savannah, Norfolk and Augusta, while Charleston and Memphis were easy though unchanged and the spot business at the south was rather less active. Port receipts were again large, reaching 61,713 bales, against 46,627 last year, making 328,-467 bales thus far this week, against 295,786 last week, but the exports from the ports were also liberal, reaching 57,800 today. Houston received 14,559, against 12,054 last year; Memphis 3,590, against 12,054 last year; Memphis 3,590, against 4,148. The quantity coming into sight this week is expected to be the largest on record for the third week of October. The buying today was largely to cover shorts. The general sentiment is skeptical as to the permanency of an advance unless receipts let up decidedly or something else happens to infuse new blood and new strength into the market. But the price is low and bears are cautious. Some wealthy operators believe that the market is at or very near bottom.

Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, October 25.—Cotton declined 5 points, but recovered this and advanced 2 to 3 points, closing dull and steady. The sales were 112,700. Liverpool declined 3 to 3½ points on futures and 1-32d for spot cotton. The spot sales there were 15,000. In Manchester yarns were quiet and unchanged; cloths in moderate demand. Bombay receipts for the week 3,000, against 5,000 last year. Total since January 1,567,000, against 1,577,000 for the same time last year; shipments 47,000 to Great Britain, against 44,000 for the same time last year and 747,000 to the continent, against 746,000 for a like period last year. Port receipts 61,713, against 47,414 this day last week and 46,627 last year; thus far this week 328,467, against 295,786 thus far last week. Amount coming to sight this week is estimated at 500,600 to 540,000, but in any case the largest ever known in the third week of October. 500,600 to 540,000, but in any case the larges ever known in the third week of October Mississippi farmers are reported to be mar teting their cotton freely. Prices declined here early owing to the large receipts and a decline in Liverpool and then rallied, owing to New Orleans buying. Estimated receipts at New Orleans tomorrow only 14,000 bales, against 18,085 last year

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, October 25.—(Special.)—The market was exceedingly nervous today. Liverpool broke to the lowest point yet touched there and our opening was at 5 points decline, January selling on the call at 5.55, but cotton shows much stubbornness after each slump.

The effort of the bears to force the liquidation of long cotton seemed fruitless and they were not willing to sell it themselves. The few buying orders received could only be executed at outside figures and prices soon rallied 3 or 4 points from the opening. Later when a small estimate of tomorrow's receipts at New Orleans was posted the shorts became frightened and bid January up to 5.63. The improvement was not fully maintained at the close, which was dull but steady with 5.61 bid for January. We would rather buy than sell, especially when the market shows weakness.

Print Cloths and the Mills.

Print Cloths and the Mills.

From The Wall Street Journal.

Fall River Special—The mill situation is hourly growing more complicated. The mills are more unsatisfactorily conditioned than at the close of last week, and a decided decrease in the looms running has occurred. The streets of the city are filled with processions of the idle operatives and the few weavers at work are being harassed and cajoied into taking issue with the strikers. The large surplus of yarns on hand has forced a lay-off of the spinners, and the end is as far off as it was at the inception of the strike over nine weeks ago.

Print cloths are dull and barely steady at the inception of the strike over nine weeks ago.

Lamson Bro's & Co.'s Grain Letter. By Private Wire to J. C. Khox, Manager. Chicago, October 25.—Wheat was fairly active at the opening, but weaker with free selling by local traders. Foreign and continental cables were not at all that could be desired, while receipts in the northwest of 950 cars again overran last year by 230 cars. There was an absence of buying power and shorts scored a gain of 350 May. New York reports selling orders for foreign account, and their market is evidently as weak as this, to which there was little or no feature, relapsing into a dull and stagnant condition toward the middle of the session. Total clearances about 460 000 bushels of wheat and flour. Trading the entire session has been of a scalping order, though the market firmed up some near the close on a better cash demand, 100,000 bushels having been worked at St. Louis and some here. The feeling among large speculators that the market is too low is still very strong. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

lators that the market is too low is still very strong.

Corn—Carloads were slightly over the estimate, but the market has held firm all day. There is still a pretty fair consumptive demand, but the lack of speculation has confined fluctuations within a narrow range. There is very little elasticity to the market. Commission houses had a few light selling orders, while there was considerable buying in small lets. May opened at 45%c, firmed to 45%c, eased off to 45%c and closed at 45%c bid.

Oats were steady at the opening with 49% c bid.

Outs were steady at the opening with some selling by brokers, and as the other markets eased off prices in oats declined; free liquidation taking place, 2 (00,00) bushe's reported to have been sold out. A number of supporting orders was apparent at the bottom, and prices recovered part of the early loss, and the outneal trust and several noted local traders being fair buyers. Outs we consider cheap at the present prices, and think it not unreasonable to expect some reaction at the least. pect some reaction at the least

Hog product was extremely dul! Opening a shade lower, prices remained nominal up to near the close, when a slight advance was scored on liberal buying by shorts. The closing was at about yesterday's final figures.

Cost of Growing Wheat.

Cost of Growing Wheat.

From The Wall Street Journal.

A gentleman in the city who has a 4,000acre wheat farm in Dakota says: "Your figures in regard to the cost of growing wheat show a loss to the grower on every acre. My cost has been less than the figures you quote and I barely get out whole.
Here are the items per acre:
"Plowing, $1; seed, 50 cents; seedling and harrowing, 60 cents; harvesting, $1; twine, 15 cents; threshing, $1.35; hauling, 20 cents;
taxes, 30 cents; rent of land, $1.60; total, $6.70. Now, the yield on my farm ran 15 bushels to the acre, and the price was, say, 45 cents per bushel. This gave a return of $3.75 per acre on a cost of $6.70 per acre, a net profit of 5 cents per acre. How they come out where the cost is greater and the yield less can be readily seen."

GETTING PLANS READY

Architect Gilbert Sends a Drawing of the Woman's Building.

THE LADIES EXAMINE IT CAREFULLY

Bids for the Government Building to Be Advertised for Right Away. Exposition Notes.

The woman's department of the exposition yesterday received preliminary plans for the woman's building from Bradford L. Gilbert, the official architect of the expo-

This building will be appropriate in its style of architecture, and a fine opportunity is open for some talented lady to design a creditable building. The plans received from Mr. Gilbert were carried before a full comof the ladles and given an examina-They were not full enough to give a clear idea of what the building will be; but as far as they could understand the drawings the ladies were pleased with the drawing consists of a floor plan with the drawing consists of a noor plan with plan of the grounds and surroundings.

In a few days Mr. Gilbert will send in a full plan of the negro building, which is to be one of the picturesque structures of the fair. He is now hard at work on it, and send it just as soon as it is completed.
will make it one of the handsomest and nest attractive buildings on the grounds. In a few days the government will begin divertising for bids for the erection of the divertising to bids to the erection of the evertnment building, the picture of which was published in yesterday's paper. These divertisements will appear in New York, New Orleans, Atlanta and Chicago papers. The contract will go to the lowest responsible bidder. The bidding will be open to coneters throughout the country. The build-will cost $50,000 and will be a beauty. Bids for the erection of the other buildings will be advertised for by the exposition management in a few days. The management hopes to start the work on the different buildings in a few weeks.

The Kinetograph Coming. Electricity will be a big feature of the Atlanta exposition as it was at the world's fair. The electrical building will comprise all that is new and interesting in electrical apparatuses. Another splendid feature in this line was added yesterday and it will furnish no end of instruction and amusement to the visitors to the fair.

It is to be an exhibit of the kinetograph, Edison's latest and one of his most marvel ous inventions. A series of kinetographs will be exhibited, each detailing some interesting scene in which prominent personages fig-ured. The privilege was let to Mr. Beverly W. Wrenn and associates. This will be an exhibit of attractiveness beyond almost anything in that line that will be seen at Exposition Notes.

Mr. Felder is daily besieged with inventors who want to furnish the novel feature for the amusement branch of the exposition, which was spoken of in The Constitution a day of two ago. A man called yesterday with a flying machine, which he wanted to start in the midway. It was his idea to make a good sum and furnish a novel attraction

Pending this motion the prisoner was allowed to give bond in the sum of $5,000. His brother, who is worth in the neighborhood of $25,000, signed the papers as his principal

As soon as the papers were properly executed and filed in the clerk's office the prisoner was given his liberty until Monday

The motion for a new trial is based upon the discovery of new evidence that tends to acquit the prisoner of the charge against him, namely that of exacting too great a fee from his client, Lucy Burrell, an old negro woman. Judge Newman intended to pronounce sentence upon the prisoner yesterday morning, the jury having returned a verdict of guilty on both counts of the indictment, on the preceding afternoon.

Colonel W. C. Glenn, however, the leading attorney for the prisoner, appeared before the court and stated in behalf of his client, that he desired to move for a new trial. The grounds on which the motion was based were stated by Colonel Glenn and Monday was designated as the time for hearing the argument on the motion.

If a new trial is refused by Judge Newman the prisoner will no doubt be sentenced to a term in the Ohio penitentiary. The case is one of the most interesting ever tried in the northern district of Geor-

A number of white cappers from Gilmer ounty will be tried before Judge Newman During his confinement Ballew had as a roommate A. J. Laird, the alleged post-office robber. He was good company for Laird, and in spite of the short stay the two men formed a close acquaintance. Baltwo men formed a close acquaintance. Bal-lew will not talk. He is sanguine and says that he feels confident that when his case is looked into again that he will be acquitted.

IT REFUSES TO DOWN. The Litigation Arising from the Forsyth Street Bridge. An important suit was filed in the United States court yesterday morning, in which the city of Atlanta is the pigintiff and the Phoenix Bridge Company is respondent. It grows out of the erection of the Forsyth street bridge and is a sequel to the chapter of litigation thereby entailed.

The petition recites that on the 11th of September, 1894, the Phoenix Bridge Company filed a suit against the city of Atlanta for $8,920.62, the balance claimed to be due under the contract for the building of the iron bridge. This amount, however, the city had positively refused to pay. It is claimed by the city that under a written contract the Phoenix Bridge Company agreed to put up the bridge for $75,400 in addition to certain materials to be furnished by the city. The bridge was to be coned by the city. The bridge was to be constructed according to the specifications and to be completed by the list of July, 1832.

The company failed to do this and fully a year elapsed beyond the expiration of the time stipulated in the contract before the bridge was completed. It was not ready for public use until the list of July, 1838.

In consequence of this delay and the alleged negligence of the Phoenix Eridge Company, a number of suits were filed against the city, aggregating a very large sum of money. Those suits were filed by the owners of property on Forsyth street in the neighborhood of the bridge. Among those filing suits were Venable Bros. & Col-lins, Mrs. Charlotte L. Peck, Mrs. Anna Pause, Mrs. Annie B. Hurt, and Abe Footo & Bro. On account of the pendency of these suits which were filed after the great-er part of the contract money was paid, the city refused to pay over the balance, $3,990.62, which amount was still in the treasury.

A still further reason for refusing to pay over this balance was because of the bond executed by the company, the security being removed from the local jurisdiction and of such a character as not to be within the reach of the state courts.

The petition asked for the grant of a restraining order to prevent the suit now pending against the city from proceeding further, and also for the privilege of paying 'any suns that might be recovered against the city from the balance of the contract money on hand.

MISSING FROM THE SCHOOL.

A Student at Clark University Skips Away and Cannot Be Found. Lucy Simson a fourteen-year-old colored girl, who has been in attendance at Clark university since its opening, this term, took a sudden departure Tuesday and cannot be found,

The president is much concerned over her disappearance, and made, a report of the matter to the disectives yesterday.

In Olden Times People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with translent action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

A FAMOUS (?) FIND.

The Most Distinguished French Archaeologists Puzzled.

Some workmen engaged in making an excavation near Montmartre, one of the "arrondissements" into which the city of Paris is divided, happened upon a curiously carved stone, bearing as an indication of high antiquity an inscription which none present were able to decipher. It was as follows:

a flying machine, which he wanted to start in the midway. It was his idea to make a good sum and furnish a novel attraction by putting in a flying machine on which visitors might be given short aerial flights.

Several applications have been made by various enterprising personages for space to put in imitation Ferris wheels. Phese will be on a much smaller scale than the big wheel at the fair. The exposition management has not decided to admit any of these ment has not decided to admit any of these ment has not decided to admit any of these mentative enterprises.

Hagenbeck's menagerie will certainly come to the exposition. Negotiations are now being put through by which this superb attraction will be brought here. A building, costing several thousand dollars, will be necessary to house the show.

UNTIL NEXT MONDAY.

A. W. Bellew Allowed to Give a $5,000 Bond.

A motion for a new trial will be made by the attorneys for A. W. Ballew, in the federal courf, next Monday morning.

Pending this motion the prisoner was al-

assembled did not dispute the peasant's assertion.

But not all such discoveries have turned out to be so farcical. The famous "Rosetta stone," discovered by Bonaparte's military engineers, furnished the key to the secrets of the Pharaohs; and when, some years ago, the monarch of that name, notorious for his persecutions, was brought forth from the sepulcher, the royal mummy was identified by the aid of that science which had its beginning with the discovery of the Rosetta stone.

it affords an unrivaled mental pabulum for Ordinary Calhonn Decides to Call the Reformatory Election.

HAD OVERLOOKED PART OF THE ACT

Hon. E. W. Martin, the Author of the Act to Establish Reformatories, Interviewed Says the Ordinary Has Authority.

Ordinary Calhoun has decided that he i empowered to call an election to decide whether or not Fulton county is to have reformatory, and he will issue this call in a few days.

When Ordinary Calhoun received the resoutions passed by the grand jury he looke up the law on the subject and decided that he could take no action in the matter. Yes terday, however, he investigated still further and found that he had overlooked an im portant portion of the Martin act. In section 3 of this act, one portion reads that after the election has been carried favorably it shall be the duty of the county commissioners or the ordinary, in event that it is a county election, to establish and maintain the reformatory. The rea son of this wording is plain. There are counties where the ordinary handles all of the county revenue, and in such an in stance he would look after the establish ment of the reformatory. Where there is a county commission it is the duty of that board to look after its establishment and maintenance.

The ordinary read this and glanced over the bill and decided that it was the sense of the act that wherever there were county commissioners it would be their duty to take entire charge. It was upon this first decision that Ordinary Calhoun based his statements.
"I have taken the matter up more thor oughly," said Ordinary Cathoun yesterday, "and find that I have the proper authority to order an election in the reformatory mat-lows: 'Be it further enacted that whenever the grand jury of any county, or the city council of any municipality in this state having a population of 30,000, shall recom-mend the establishment of a reformatory prison for the class of convicts mentioned in section 1 of this act, belonging to said county or municipality, the ordinary of said county or the mayor of such municipality shall call an election to be held to de cide whether such reformatory prison shall be established.'

"Now, in looking over this law the direct reference to the ordinary must have been overlooked by me, though my attention was focused a little later on in section 3 to the portion which refers to the ry or county commissioners.' This section refers to the establishment and mainte nance of a reformatory in case the election should be a favorable one. It reads-that portion referring directly to what I have said—as follows: 'Where the election shall result in more votes being cast "for reformatory prison" than "against reformatory prison," then the ordinary or county commissioners in the case of a county city council in the case of a municipality, shall establish and maintain a "reformato-ry prison" as hereinafter specified.' Then follows the regulations as to the running of a reformatory.

"I shall call the election in a few days.

and in the meantime intend to look over the Martin act again." What Hon. E. W. Martin Says. In view of the difference in the views taken regarding the ordinary's authority, Hon. E. W. Martin, the author of the reformatory bill, was seen. "I was very careful in the preparation of the bill," said he. "You remember that this is simply for a county or municipal reformatory. The bill for a state reformatory was not passed. It was my intention, when I drew the bill, that the ordinary, in the instance of a grand jury recommendation, should call the election. The establishment and maintenance would naturally go to the county commissioners in the county where such a body exists; otherwise the ordinary would complete the record-as it might be no authority when he decides to call the election,"

AT THE THEATER.

"A Black Sheep" had the best second night of the season and made another hit. Otis Harlan and his associates are all clever people, and the comedy is decidedly Hoytesque-which means thoroughly up to date.

"Isle of Champagne" Tonight. In American comic opera, "The Isle of Champagne," which will be given tonight at the Grand by the Seabrooke Opera Company, easily takes the lead. It is not an opera comique, but is comic opera straighta distinction which is not always remembered. The story-it is a quaint one, absurdly quaint, else it would not be so deliciously funny-begins, is carried on, and has its ending on an island where cham-pagne is the only beverage, and water un-known, until a ship from New Bedford, Mass., with a great many hogsheads of is is blown ashore there, after which the new beverage is sold at fabulous prices, with the result of making the old maid owner and future queen rich, with all the resulting complications of the opera. The Seabrooke Opera Company will produce "the Isle of Champagne" with all the beautiful scenery and gorgeous costumes, which gained for this production the title of "opera par excellence.' At matinee tomorrow and Saturday night Mr. Seabrooke will present his latest suc-cess, "Tabasco," which is said to be even funnier and as full of catchy music as "The Isle of Champagne."

Sweet Elvia Crox, the daintiest and prettiest of prima donna soubrettes, will take the leading female role. Her pretty face, sweet voice, and charming stage presence will be remembered by all who saw Seabrooke's company here last season.
"Tabasco's" plot deals with the troubles of the pasha's chef who is unable to reproduce a famous "Tabasco" sauce which has so pleased the pasha that he threatens the life of his chef if the sauce is not forthcoming by a certain hour. The funny sit-uations that take place and the various atuations that take place and the various at-tempts to find the famous "Tabasco" sauce make up the background to the funniest comic opera ever written.

"The Seabrooke company numbers eighty people, including an orchestra.

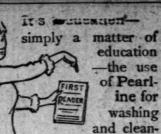

"1492" Coming. The gorgeous extravaganza, "1492," presented by Rice's surprise party, will be the attraction Monday and Tuesday at the Grand. Atlanta is to be congratulated for it is Indeed seldom that the south sees a great success, so soon after the closing of its New York run.

Warde and James. The leading Shakespearean event of the season at the Grand will be the farewell engagement of the eminent actors, Frederick Warde and Louis James, next Wednesday and Thursday, when they will present their magnificent revival, Shakespeare's Henry IV and Lord Bulwer Lyton's charming drama, "Richelieu. This will be the last appearance of the tragedians together in Atlanta, without doubt, and will be an event of more than ordinary importance.

ATA SPECIAL MEETING

The Board of Education Will Consider The Boy's High School Building.

A NEW PROPOSITION HAS BEEN MADE

Regular Monthly Meeting of the Board Yesterday-Many Matters Considered by the Board.

A long and talky session was held by the board of education yesterday afternoon and

The transaction of routine business was supplemented by the injection of new matter which occupied the larger part of the body's deliberations. The long discussed and still unsettled Boys' High school matter was again taken up and turned over and re-turned and examined and discussed in every feature and left-in the same state as before.

There will be a meeting of the board next Thursday afternoon, however, specially assembled for the purpose of settling finally this question. At that time it looks very much as if bids will be at once advertised for and work begun in a very short while. Other matters of minor importance were

Details of the Session.

President Beatie presided over yesterday's meeting, and there were present in attendance, Messrs. Mayson, Hirsch, Hendrix, Thomson, Kontz, Inman, Bray, Connally, Lowry, Calhoun, English and Goodwin.

Superintendent Siaton, presented his monthly report. It covered detail matters of the schools. He showed that he had just received from State School Commissioner Bradwell, $2,212.90, which was not more than one-twentieth of Atlanta's share of the public school money for the year. Up to date Atlanta has received $18,314.30 for the three quarters of the year, which, as will be seen, is not half of the amount that will come to the city. He had also taken in $15.25 for non-resident tultion.

The superintendent reported three cases of suspension from school, with the attend-ant circumstances, and the action in suspending the students was approved. One suspended child made application for res-toration, and the petition was properly referred for action.

Mr. Vining's Case.

Mr. David M. Vining appeared before the board with an application for the transfer of his thirteen-year-old son from one grade of the Boys' High school to another. He stated that his son had been in attendance upon the first grade of the Boys' High school, but having been severely punished by the teacher of that grade for tardiness he had been removed from school.

Mr. Vining explained that his son was whipped by the teacher, and being subject to nervous shocks, had been made sick in consequence. Aside from this he thought the whipping without warrant, and he wanted his son transferred to another grade. The matter was talked over in all its bearings. Mr. Vining made his statement, and after he was through the members of the board gave their opinion.

It was the decision of the board that the discipline of the school could not be main-tained and the request granted, and it was finally determined to allow Mr. Vining the privilege of re-entering his son in the same

Mr. Vining was not at all satisfied with the action of the board. He stated that the members of the board were perfectly honest in their position in reference to the ques-tion that he had raised, but he thought that they did not have the proper view of the question. He declared that he would not re-turn his boy to the grade from which he had come. He said that he had no attack to make on the teacher or the board, but would spend a thousand dollars rather than have his son returned to the grade where he had been corporally punished. Chairman Thomson, of the committee on finance, reported approved bills for the month, amounting to $13,324.69.

The School Building D Chairman Hendrix, from the building committee of the board, reported a proposition upon which his committee had agreed to have the work upon the new Boys' High school begin at once, and carried on as far as the city was able to pay during the pres-ent year. It was his opinion and that of the committee that by so doing, the erection of the new school building might be greatly dispatched, and a needless waste of time avoided.

It will be remembered that the committee had to cease operation just at the most interesting point on account of the unexpected cutting short of the school appropriation to the extent of $3,000. The committee had gone ahead and advertised for bids and builders were preparing estimates and submitting propositions when the discovery wa made.

This discovery followed just on the heels of the lively controversy as to the architects' plans for the building. As every one knows the plans of Golucke & Stewart, architects, were accepted, and this raised a kick among some of the competing architects. Mr. Norrman, the well-known architect, pronounced the plans as architectural mon-strosities and for a while some very inter-esting epithets were scattered around. The matter finally dropped out of sight; but not until it had been thoroughly aired and Mr. Norrman had warmly criticised the building committee, which had selected the plans from among eight others.

When it was announced that the building could not be put up many declared that Mr. Norrman had won his fight, and that the announcement of the board that there was not sufficient money to continue the work on the building was merely a scheme to explain away their retreat from their original position. But this conclusion was wrong. The building committee and the board of education were very much disappointed that the work could not be started and pushed through with the desired dispatch, and have since been trying to patch, and have since been trying to devise some plan by which the work might be continued.

The committee has reached the conclusion The committee has reached the conclusion that the work might be begun and carried on to the extent to which the city is able to pay for it. The committee says that the foundation can be laid and paid for before January 1st, and after that time the city will have plenty of money to take up the work and push it to immediate completion. This plan was suggested at the board yesterday afternoon and it was discussed at length. Every member of the board indulged in the discussion of the question. It was at last decided to let the matter rest until next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The indications now are that the board

The indications now are that the board will decide to start the work. By so doing the school may be finished several months earlier than usual. The question is now one of considerable interest among the members of the board.

A great battle is continually going on in the human system. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon to drive out disease and re-store health. Take it now before decaying vegetation affects your system.
